PROPERTY TAXES

On average, residents to pay $264 more this year

By Brian Messenger

The owner of the average single-family home will pay $264.17 more in property tax this fiscal year.

Selectmen set the likely tax rate for fiscal year 2007 on Monday, Nov. 20.

The assessed value of the average single family home in Andover rose from $561,360 to $591,800 between FY06 and FY07, according to the town assessor's office, a jump that will result in increased tax bills despite the residential tax rate being reduced from $11.40 to $11.26 per $1,000 of assessed value.

Under the board's decision, residential property tax will increase by 4.13 percent, commercial by 6.25 percent, and industrial by 2.16 percent.

"I tend to think the residents have been taking a hit in recent years," said Selectmen Ted Teichert of his decision to support a residential rate of $11.26 and a commercial/industrial rate of $18.33 per $1,000 assessed value.

Teichert's motion was approved 4-1, with only Brian Major disagreeing.

"I personally think that's too high of a jump," Major said of the change in rates.

Major wanted to see residential and commercial property owners face roughly the same percentage increase (4.87 to 4.11 percent).

Once the tax factor is weighted to one side,"businesses have to make the decision: 'Should we stay or should we go,'"

EIGHTH STRAIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

ANDOVER'S AMAZING SWIM AND DIVE TEAM

For girls, eight may not be enough

By Rick Harrison

It's never too early to start thinking about next year's slogan.

"Nine Would Be Divine" comes immediately to mind.

Eight, incidentally, truly was great as the Andover High girls swim and dive team remained undefeated in the 21st century, picking up its eighth straight MIAA State Team Championship by topping a Division 1 field of 18 schools last Sunday morning at the MIT Zesiger Aquatic Center in Cambridge.

"We seem to swim well in the morning," said AHS standout Tiffany Petzold.

Not that the Lady Warriors compete before noon very often – but when they do it brings out the best.

Last Sunday the Andover group boarded the bus for Cambridge shortly after 6 a.m.

And – in what has become a familiar pre-Thanksgiving Day sight and sound – followed the usual drill on the way home.

At about 1:15 p.m. the return bus glided off Interstate 93 North onto Route 125, cut over to South Main Street and picked up a police escort with blue lights flashing and sirens blazing. Athletes stood and waved out bus windows and a caravan of 12 to 15 cars filled with family and friends in tow made its noisy way up Main Street and back to the high school.

This state championship win was a bit of a pressure-cooker for head coach Marilyn Fitzgerald and her troops, nowhere near as overwhelming a victory as the North Sectional win or the seven previous state titles.

In fact, the AHS streak was in jeopardy as the locals trailed by 26 points (213-187) after nine of the 12 events – until a 2-3 finish in the 100 backstroke proved huge.

Chief Merrimack Valley Conference rival Chelmsford regrouped – after getting thrashed at Harvard eight days earlier – and finished just 13 points behind the champs.

Andover capped the tug-of-war competition with a slender 301-288 point edge over the Lions, who had also pressed the locals in their Oct. 30 dual meet (94-92) and the MVC Division 1 Championship Meet (466-442). Acton-Boxboro was a distant third at the State Meet with 220 points, and rounding out the top five were Reading (104) and Framingham (89).

Town: Roof repair can't be put off

By Brian Messenger

The Andover High School roof is in such dire need of replacement that Plant and Facilities Director Joe Piantedosi already has workers designing a new roof. Piantedosi said he has his fingers crossed the roof will make it through the winter without needing costly temporary repairs, which have already totaled $12,000 this year.

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski has requested the town pay for the new roof, which amounts to $455,000 of a $3.7 million school roof replacement project request for fiscal year 2008, through a Proposition 2½ debt exclusion. This allows the town to raise taxes above the level allowed by Proposition 2½ temporarily, just to pay for this work. Voters could be asked to approve a another temporary property tax increase of $1.19 million to reconstruct sidewalks.

Residents could end up voting for or against the debt exclusions either before or after Town Meeting, depending on the decision of selectmen, according to Town Clerk Randall Hanson.

Board Chairman Alex Vispoli said the selectmen have not yet considered how or whether they will go forward with the debt exclusion proposed by Stapczynski. A majority vote is required by the board for a Proposition 2½ question – whether a general override or debt exclusion – to be placed on the ballot.

"That's a little ahead of the game," said Vispoli. "First we've got to decide which projects [within the Capital Improvement Program] are in and which are out, and then

Feaster Five remains a hit

By Michelle Wiener

Leah Cairns of 2 Nicholas Circle is a sophomore at Andover High School who has been participating in the Feaster Five Road Race – and Andover Thanksgiving Day tradition – since she was about 3. Cairns would walk the race with her family when she was younger, but now runs it with her sister Becky Cairns, an AHS senior.

"I used to do it in a wagon," she says, "and when I got old enough I did the little kids' [1 kilometer] race and when I got older I did the big kids' one."

Kitty Dukakis touts controversial therapy in Andover

By Brian Messenger

Thanks to his role as Randall Patrick McMurphy in the 1975 film One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, the face of Jack Nicholson and its association with the electric shock therapy used in mental institutions still endures today.

But a new book is offering a fresh take on the treatment, now referred to as electroconvulsive therapy, or ECT. And a new face too. The face of Kitty Dukakis.

Dukakis, 69, and her husband, former Massachusetts governor and presidential candidate Michael Dukakis, came to Andover's Temple Emmanuel on Nov. 19 to talk about her new book Shock: The Healing Power of Electroconvulsive Therapy, co-written with former Boston Globe journalist Larry Tye.

For Dukakis, who has suffered from clinical depression for nearly two decades, antidepressant pills simply have not worked to treat her illness, which usually flairs up every eight to nine months. The result can be four-month periods that she describes as "going down a dark, deep tunnel."

Excessive sleeping and alcohol addiction were how Dukakis coped with the depression, until she received her first ECT treatment five and a half years ago at Massachusetts General Hospital. The results were both positive and immediate, she said of the controversial treatment.

"I often say that this treatment saved my life," Dukakis told the audience at Temple Emanuel. "For me, the benefits are so huge that Michael often refers to it as a miracle treatment."

One hundred thousand Americans receive ECT a year, and, according to Tye, 75 percent of them experience relief from depression. That compares favorably to the 30 to 60 percent success rate of most anti-depressant pills, he said.

The book, which alternates chapters between Dukakis's personal story and Tye's scientific and historical history of the treatment, is 304 pages and was released in September by Avery.

Tye said theories behind why ECT works range from its effect on seratonin levels in the brain to it actually setting off an anti-convulsive reaction. In layman's terms, Tye said that it could be compared to rebooting a computer or kicking a television to clear up a fuzzy picture.

Side effects to the treatment include short-term memory loss. Dukakis said she has several times lost her way driving to the Northeastern University campus, where her husband teaches, but that, overall, loss of memory has been minimal.

"I certainly wouldn't rush someone to ECT," said Andover psychiatrist Larry Larson. "It's certainly not a cure all."

While his stance on ECT treatment is neutral, Larson noted that in addition to memory loss there was the possibility of adverse effects to executive functioning in the prefrontal lobes, the portion of the brain that develops last.

"I would be concerned about the possible disorder in that regard," Larson said. "The higher-order functions – organization, synthesis, integration, prioritizing – tell the rest of the brain what to do."

"This is not a treatment for everybody," Dukakis said. "But for those who it helps, it makes an enormous difference in their lives."

Before signing books, both the Dukakises and Tye answered questions from the crowd.

When asked, if so successful, why ECT was still treated as a last resort by doctors, Tye said that when comparing shock therapy to taking pills, "Anybody would want to start out with the less invasive [treatment]."

Both Dukakis and Tye said that in writing Shock, their goal was to diminish the perception that ECT is barbaric treatment. They want ECT to become a treatment option for those suffering from clinical depression.

Dukakis has also written a memoir, titled Now You Know, published by Simon & Schuster and released in 1991, which dealt with her alcoholism and experience with the pressures of being a political wife. After the talk, Dukakis said that writing Shock was more of a challenge than her first book. "It was much more intense," she said.

Tye imagined that this was because while alcoholism is widely understood, both depression and ECT are not.

"It's been stigmatized even within the field [of psychiatry]," Tye said, later noting, "It's not a cure, it's a treatment."

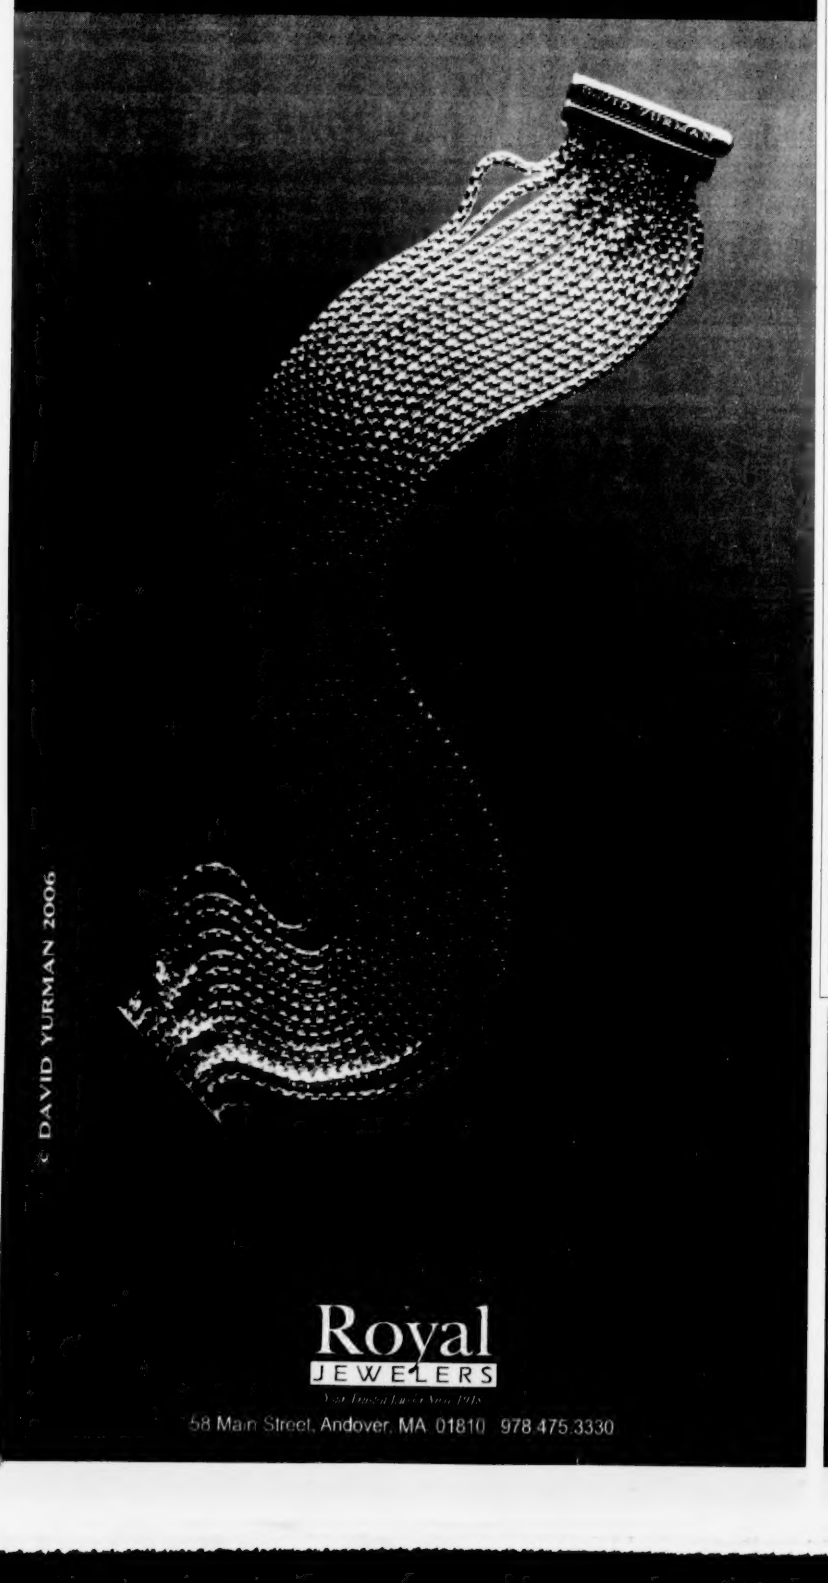

"I can tell you this: I have my wife back," Michael Dukakis said. "To have her share this with thousands and thousands of people is terrific."

The former governor told the audience of a woman he knew whose daughter committed suicide after suffering from depression for 20 years. A female graduate student of his, also suffering from depression and taking nine medications at the same time to treat it, was falling asleep during class. In these patients' cases, ECT had never been mentioned by their doctors.

"When you hear these cases, and that alternative hasn't been at least suggested by the doctor, that doesn't make any sense to me," he said.

Blodgett is president of state district attorney's association

Essex District Attorney Jonathan W. Blodgett has been elected as president of the Massachusetts District Attorney's Association.

"There are many challenges to be met, including legislative initiatives, striving for budgets that allow us to deliver the kinds of services our citizens deserve, and working as partners with citizens, police and community officials to make our cities and towns safer places to live and work," said Blodgett, who had been vice president for the past 12 months.

There are 11 elected district attorneys in Massachusetts, who collectively employ about 1,500 prosecutors, victim and witness advocates, investigators and support staff. They prosecute about 300,000 cases each year.

Ceremony officially marks opening of Lovely Field building used this fall by Andover High

The Friends of Andover High School Football officially handed over ownership of a new 1,800-square-foot team building to the School Department during a ceremony after Townsman deadline on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 15. The building at Lovely Field houses a ticket booth, concession stand, storage area and media room, and it is next to the locker room building, which the Friends also renovated.

The entire cost of the project is $450,000, organizer Willard Perkins said.

"It's a real state-of-the-art facility to review game tape, which is really critical in football," said Brian McNally, the school's athletic director. "It's a top-notch facility."

Before this year, football teams had to watch game film in their locker room. The school had "outgrown" the old concession stand and additional storage space was "sorely needed," McNally said.

The renovations to the locker room building included security upgrades and a new roof, Perkins said. The Friends raised the money for the project by asking members of the football community and other residents for donations. Superintendent Claudia Bach and Plant and Facilities Director Joseph Piantedosi worked with the Friends to see the project through to completion. The Planning Board and School Committee also approved the work.

Romney cuts hit Youth Services

$150,000 grant on state block

By April A. Guilmet and Colin Steele

Andover Youth Services could lose one it its four full-time employees and have to drop some new programs, as a result of Gov. Mitt Romney's recent budget cuts.

Last year, Youth Services received a state grant for $150,000, enabling the department to purchase much-needed equipment and launch its after-school wrestling programs.

But this year, things may be different, said the program's director Bill Fahey. Last week, Gov. Romney announced $425 million in emergency spending cuts. Among the many cuts was this year's $150,000 grant.

"It's going to change the whole scope of the year for us," Fahey said. "I can't believe this is happening."

Currently, Youth Services runs year-round programs for around 6,500 Andover teens, including recreational, educational, social and support programs. Fundraisers, such as its annual Christmas tree and wreath sale, provide additional financial support to supplement the state grant, and allow the department to run programs that do not have to be self-supporting.

On Nov. 17, Rep. Barry Finegold, D- Andover, along with Rep. Barbara L'Italien, D- Andover and Sen. Susan Tucker, D- Andover, wrote to Gov. Romney's office imploring him to reverse the budget cut, which was one of many made to balance the state's $25.7 billion budget as an alternative to borrowing $450 million from the state emergency fund.

"Youth Services' mission to protect the public and prevent crime by promoting positive change in the lives of youth will be severely handicapped as the result of this cut," Finegold said.

It was Finegold who'd helped Youth Services get the grant in the first place.

Awaiting Gov. Romney's final decision, Fahey and the three other staff members at Andover Youth Services hope for the best as they prepare for their annual fundraiser, the annual Christmas Tree sale held at the Andover Community Skate Park.

The tree sale, which starts Nov. 25, will feature not only fresh cut trees but also wreaths, kissing balls, ornaments and garland, among other holiday items. Hours are Monday through Friday from 3:30 to 8:30 p.m., and on weekends from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. The sale will continue until all items are sold out.

Without the grant, Fahey hopes he can find some way to avoid laying off an employee. But to do so, "I'd have to sell a lot more Christmas trees," he said, referring to the department's annual holiday fundraiser. "My commitment is to not lose anybody here at Youth Services."

BALMORAL TOUR

Learn history, help flood victims

By Brian Messenger

Balmoral Condominiums resident Judy McFadden likes the close-knit environment the building, built around the 1920s, provides her.

"This is kind of a self-contained community," she said.

If she only knew.

But, while McFadden admitted she didn't know too much about the history of the Balmoral building, or the surrounding Shawsheen Village neighborhood, she and other town residents will get the chance to learn a whole lot more during the Balmoral Holiday Tour on Dec. 9, from noon to 5 p.m. Balmoral Condominiums is a four-story building near the corner of Routes 133 and 28.

The Shawsheen or northern area of town was rebuilt into a mill village during the early part of the 20th Century by business executive William Wood, who molded the area into one of the country's first modern self-sustaining communities, said Don Robb, vice president of the Andover Historical Society.

"He wanted a self-contained community here," Robb said. "Every aspect of the village, he sort of provided it."

As a fundraiser organized by McFadden and other Balmoral residents to defray the flood-damage costs endured by condo owners since last May, the tour will provide the chance to view 14 unique units within the building, with decorations, music and light refreshments setting the holiday mood.

"It's like going on a town tour, except it's all happening in one building," McFadden said. "We thought it would be a good way to raise money. The building is well known."

While four basement units were totally destroyed at Balmoral, the other units remained virtually unscathed. But the basement storage space and heating and electrical equipment serving all the units were ruined, McFadden said. She wasn't able to move back into her unit until Aug. 1. Residents, who still did not have heat at the beginning of October, are using a temporary boiler now.

"We're back, but it's not 100 percent, obviously," she said. "It will be a long time."

Fundraiser organizers suggest a $15 donation for the tour, which will likely include a slide show by Robb, and the opportunity to ask questions about Shawsheen's past of historical society volunteers.

"It's got a lot of character to it," said Lora Williams, also a historical society member, of the Balmoral building.

The building was used by Wood as an executive office during the 1920s and leading up to the Great Depression.

Wood, vice president of the American Woolen Co., oversaw the transformation of Shawsheen Village from 1918 to 1923. While his company made profits by supplying uniforms and blankets during World War I, Wood pieced together what would eventually become a self-sustaining community.

"If you walled it up, they could survive," Williams said.

Where the land used by the IRS building now stands on Route 133, Wood had farms, not to mention a cafeteria, bakery, and creamery closer to the village's center. The Balmoral Spa acted as a clubhouse, drugstore and social center for the community of American Woolen executives, who were moved from Boston to Andover.

More notably, Wood built brick houses for his top executives, and white wooden houses with green shutters for his lower-level executives. No personal garages or driveways were permitted, because Wood didn't want cars parked in front of the houses. Nor could residents dry their clothes on clotheslines. Instead, a village garage and laundry facility were built where Woodworth Motors now operates.

"Nobody today would even dream of putting something like that up," said Robb of the village. "He completely tore down what was there, moved some things around and changed things to suit himself."

He said people can still spot white houses with green shutters and no driveways, and red brick buildings like the Balmoral – all signs of a unique period in the history of the town.

Turkey for nearly 300 families

By Brian Messenger

Sixteen-year-old Tim Gibson will be resting easy at the Turkey Day table, knowing he helped put the giving in Thanksgiving.

"I've learned that helping people out makes you feel good," Gibson, a sophomore at Central Catholic, said. "When you're eating Thanksgiving you can feel much better knowing that you helped people reach that same goal."

Thanks to 295 donated turkeys, 689 cans of vegetables, 124 cans of cranberry sauce and hundreds more food items collected by St. Augustine's Church, volunteers and donors helped to ensure that nearly 300 families will have plenty to eat this holiday weekend.

Not only did they supply Lazarus House in Lawrence with that many Thanksgiving dinners, they also provided enough food to feed the families for the next three days as well. The food was delivered to the shelter on Nov. 20.

It was all a part of the church's 12th annual Turkey Dinner Drive, a community effort that's grown larger and larger every year, according to St. Augustine School Assistant Principal Paula O'Dea.

"Now, you barely have to advertise," she said, recalling when, during the first year of the drive, they did not collect more than 50 turkeys until her husband bought the final three. "A lot of these families have a lot to give. They have big hearts."

For Lynn Gibson, mother of Tim and his three brothers and sisters, including a fourth-grader at St. Augustine School, the food drive gives her family an annual opportunity to make a difference. The Gibsons have been involved in the Turkey Dinner Drive since its inception.

"It's great. Literally every year it's grown. It's really nice to see the community involvement," said Lynn Gibson.

St. Augustine School's 18 classes and the parish's 1,300 religious education students from grades 1 to 10 helped collect canned foods throughout the month of November for the drive.

This was the first year the drive took place in the parish's new religious education center, where kids packed all of the food into boxes and helped load it into a truck for delivery to Lazarus House. All in all, the entire process took no more than 15 minutes, according to O'Dea.

"This is part of their celebration," she said of the kids who participated in the drive. "They begin by giving out to someone else."

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski is again asking downtown businesses to pitch in to light the downtown business district during the winter holidays.

Town seeks cash for lights

By April A. Guilmet

Town manager Buzz Stapczynski is once again calling upon local businesses, large and small, to help fund the holiday light display along Main Street.

Andover has decorated trees in the downtown shopping district with white Christmas lights for years. Beginning in 2000, the Andover Center Association announced that it could no longer foot the bill, and donations have been sought each year since.

With more trees than ever targeted for lights this year, the cost is estimated to be around $15,000.

"It's an important year for the lights since this year's celebration will extend from Elm Street all the way to Punchard Avenue for the first time," Selectmen Mary Lyman said.

All Main Street trees are expected to be set aglow just in time for Friday, Dec. 1, when the town's annual Main Street holiday festivities are expected to be larger than ever.

Like last year, Stapczynski sent letters to various area businesses, seeking help in lighting up Main Street. The letters were sent out Nov. 9.

Thanks to the kindness of local merchants, the town was able to install permanent lights on 17 of Main Street's trees last year.

The costs of maintaining the trees typically runs around $1,000 per tree according to Betsy Powers, owner of Culinary Concepts and president of Andover Business Center Association.

"That's a lot of money. Merchants would like to see if there's a less expensive alternative," Powers said. Not to mention, she noted, many businesses inevitably feel left out of the equation.

"Unfortunately Main Street is long and some businesses get lit and others don't," Powers said. She added that, from a merchant's perspective, many holiday shoppers are naturally drawn to businesses with illuminated trees near their front doors. Among the businesses that don't see lit trees out their front window is Power's shop, Culinary Concepts, which is located on Park Street.

Other shops, such as dress-code and Giggles, both on Main Street in Elm Square, were also left in the dark last year, according to Powers.

While Powers herself doesn't donate to the lighting fund, she hasn't lost her holiday spirit. On Nov. 19, members of the Andover Business Center Association decked the halls – or, really, the lampposts – along Park and Barnard Streets.

"KaBloom donated the greens, while Bob Branca of Andover Electric is donating his time. I don't want to say we've been forgotten, but it will be nice to have a little festivity here," Powers said. She added that the total cost of all the greens probably is the same as the cost of lighting just one tree.

With smaller businesses unable to assist with the lighting on a major scale, the helping hand of larger corporations is necessary to make Main Street glow, said Lyman, the selectman.

"Last year was the first time we had CVS pitch in. I always feel bad for the small businesses since the bigger ones don't always participate," Lyman said. She admitted that, as was the case with CVS, larger companies don't always jump on the bandwagon immediately more because of slow corporate procedure than stinginess.

CVS manager Kevin Cosgrove said he planned on donating to the lighting fund again this year. He wouldn't disclose the amount donated last year, but said he looks forward to partaking in the downtown festivities.

"We've done a lot of things through the business association in the past," Cosgrove said.

Last year, the town's biggest contributors were Banknorth, Dunkin' Donuts, Danvers Bank and Sovereign Bank, according to assistant town manager Steve Bucuzzo.

Installed last year by Syracuse, N.Y. contractor Downtown Decorations, which specializes in municipal light displays, the lights are up and will be ready to go for the upcoming holiday events, he added.

"This year's contributions will be used to install additional lights and maintain existing sets," Bucuzzo said.

Debt exclusion for repairs?

■ ANDOVER HIGH ROOF

decide how to fund them."

Piantedosi said the Andover High School roof, installed with a 10-year warranty, is now 22 years old, and must be replaced by this summer for fear it will leak and cause major water damage. Even without frequent rain, he said, large quantities of standing water remain atop the roof due to ineffective drainage.

"I think it makes good sense," Piantedosi said of the possibility of a debt exclusion. "If it doesn't get funded, it's pretty serious business. It's not something we can put off any longer."

But the Andover High School roof is just part of the $3.7 million the town could seek in a debt exclusion for roof repairs. This money will also fix roofs at the Collins Center; Sanborn, South and Shawsheen elementary schools, as well as parts of the Doherty Middle School Auditorium.

Piantedosi said those roofs, while in better shape than the high school's, will likely have major issues as well if not replaced within two winters.

"After that, all bets are off," he said.

"This is not maintenance. This is major capital [investment]," Piantedosi said. "It's something that needs to be done to protect our investment in these schools."

The town manager has acknowledged in a letter to selectmen that the town's previous "stop gap" strategy of funding sidewalk and roof repairs was inadequate, and that a longer-range view was needed to fit the needs of projects with multi-year master plans.

That view is shared by Finance Committee chairwoman Joanne Marden, who said that while the committee itself hasn't taken a position on the debt exclusion proposal, they were concerned with adopting a funding strategy that considers future financial circumstances.

"Any analysis or discussion of a debt exclusion has to be a multi-year view," Marden said.

The current CIP includes additional spending on roof and sidewalk repairs for each of the next five years.

Families make race a tradition

■ FEASTER FIVE

Even when she was in a carriage, when it was "too cold to sit" she would "walk to keep warm," she says.

Cairns is one of an expected 7,000 or so runners and walkers who will make new memories when they take to Andover's streets this Thanksgiving morning for the 19th annual Feaster Five Road Race. Participants can choose a 5-kilometer (3.1 mile) or 5-mile course. The race starts at the corner of Routes 133 and 28 and ends in Brickstone Square. The Kids K starts at 8 a.m., and the entry fee is $5. Adults race at 8:30 a.m. The adult entry fee is $25 on race day. Register online at www.feasterfive.com and click on "registration" for instructions.

Sam Dempsey, of 20 Lincoln St., began the Feaster Five nine years ago in the Kids K, before moving up to the 5 K the following year.

"I thought I'd be able to do it, and I did," says this AHS sophomore. Although he runs the 5 K, he says jokingly, "I've stuck with that because I can't run five miles."

The race is a family tradition. Dempsey usually runs with his dad, brother, and a few of his friends. "It's a great time," he sums up. "It's become one of the highlights of my life and of the year."

Dempsey started participating because of his mom. "My mom just heard about it and was like, 'Hey, it's early in the morning on Thanksgiving Day and we're not doing much so why not entertain ourselves?'" he says.

Harry and Victoria Roche of Andover are newcomers to the 5 K walk and run this Thanksgiving, although they have run the Kids K for the past two years. Sixth grader Harry says, "After the race, I feel really good about myself and knowing that I worked for this."

Harry decided to make the switch to the 5 K after he ran in the Andover Days race.

"I thought I did pretty well," he says, "so I thought I wanted to do the Feaster Five this year."

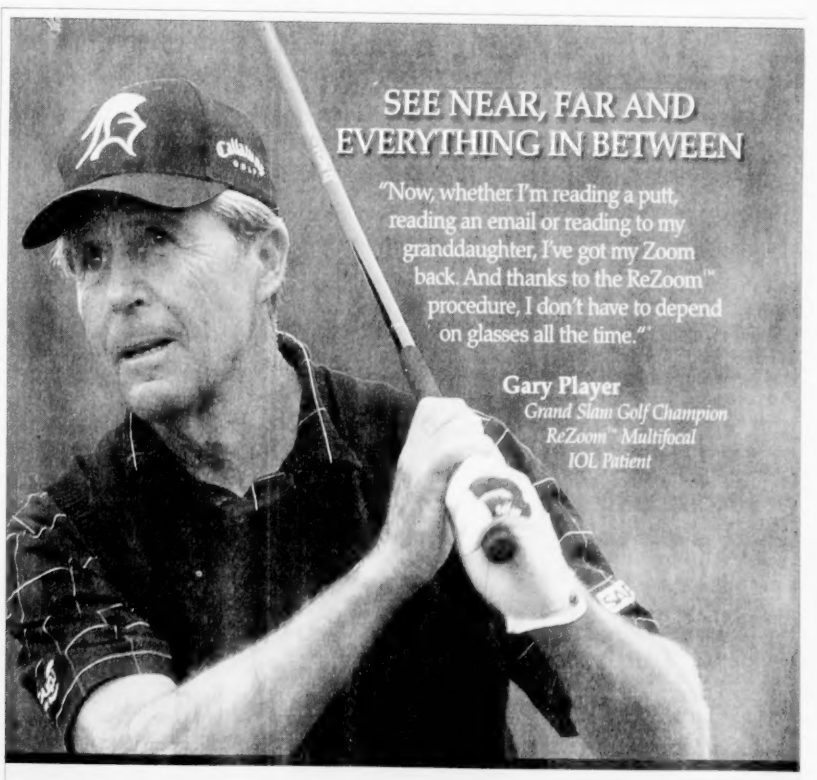

Harry says he plans on running, but that his sister will stop and walk if she needs to.

However, third-grader Victoria does not sound like she is planning on stopping. While she admits it is "going to be hard," she says what she likes about the event is, "That I'm doing it with my family and I know that I'll feel great after."

The two siblings have been training for the race with their mother, Pam Roche, who is a runner, and their father, Dan Roche.

"We've been running around my neighborhood," says Victoria.

"Usually the kids run the kid race and the adults run the adult race," says Pam Roche. "But this is the first time the entire family is running the entire race together."

STUDENT LEADERS

Community service shapes this student

The following is the second in a series of articles about Andover High School students involved in community service. They are written as part of the Developing Leadership course by students Kristina Fuerst, Kerry Gaj and David Geohegan.

LAUREN VIVIAN, a senior at Andover High School, has volunteered at the Professional Center for Child Development in Andover for the past four years and believes it has helped make her into the person she is today.

At the center, Vivian helps the children learn by playing and building things with them.

"It's really important that the kids learn by doing; we play with them to teach them. We use familiar objects and sounds and have them repeat to us until they can learn to do it on their own," says Vivian.

Lauren Vivian

The children spend the day doing a variety of activities, such as playing with sand and water tables, painting pictures, and playing games and using learning blocks to focus on their particular difficulties.

Volunteering has equipped Vivian with the knowledge necessary for a career in this field.

However, she first learned about speech pathology from her aunt and cousin, who are speech pathologists.

She became more involved at the center on Osgood Street last year when she chose to have an independent study to focus on her volunteer work.

"It [volunteering] makes me really happy to know I've helped them [the children]. Even in the smallest way, I have had an influence on their lives. I have definitely become more appreciative of what I have and who I am. Some of the kids I help have to work really hard at things that just come naturally to me and I really admire them for it," she said.

WPAA broadcast

National guests can be heard on Phillips student's radio show

By Colin Steele

MOVE OVER, Al Franken and Rush Limbaugh. There's a new political talk show host making waves in the radio industry.

But Alexander Heffner's "The Progressive Mind" isn't a national program. It's not even broadcast over the airwaves or on the Internet. The only way to tune in is through the internal computer network at Phillips Academy — where Heffner is in the 11th grade.

That limited exposure hasn't stopped him from scoring an impressive list of guests, especially around election time, several weeks ago. He has interviewed PBS political correspondent Judy Woodruff, new Congressman John Hall and Iowa Gov. Thomas Vilsack, a 2008 presidential candidate.

"It's really extraordinary that a student in this nation is able to converse with them on the same level, as if I'm Keith Olbermann or Wolf Blitzer," Heffner, a Manhattan native, said.

Alexander Heffner of New York City, a junior at Phillips Academy, hosts a weekly political talk show that has featured national journalists, analysts and prominent politicians.

So what's his secret to landing such big names, despite having an audience limited to the Phillips campus? At first, he admitted, "I kind of hid that fact and said that we're a station that's based outside Boston." But now that he has some prominent names on the show's resume, it has been easier to book high-profile guests, he said.

"All the guests respect this kind of student initiative," he said.

In the months leading up to last week's midterm elections, "The Progressive Mind" featured interviews with six congressional candidates from across the country. Heffner plans to build on that momentum in January and launch two new series featuring American governors and 2008 presidential candidates.

Heffner's show airs Thursday nights on WPAA, the student-run radio station broadcast online through the Phillips intranet. He is about one of 20 students on the staff who work as disc jockeys, show hosts, producers and program directors. More than 500 listeners from across the country tuned in to the special election night edition of "The Progressive Mind," which aired internationally over the Internet, and Heffner has similar webcasts planned for Martin Luther King Day and the State of the Union Address.

Matthew Smyth, the communications director at the University of Virginia Center for Politics, was one of the national analysts who appeared on the election night program.

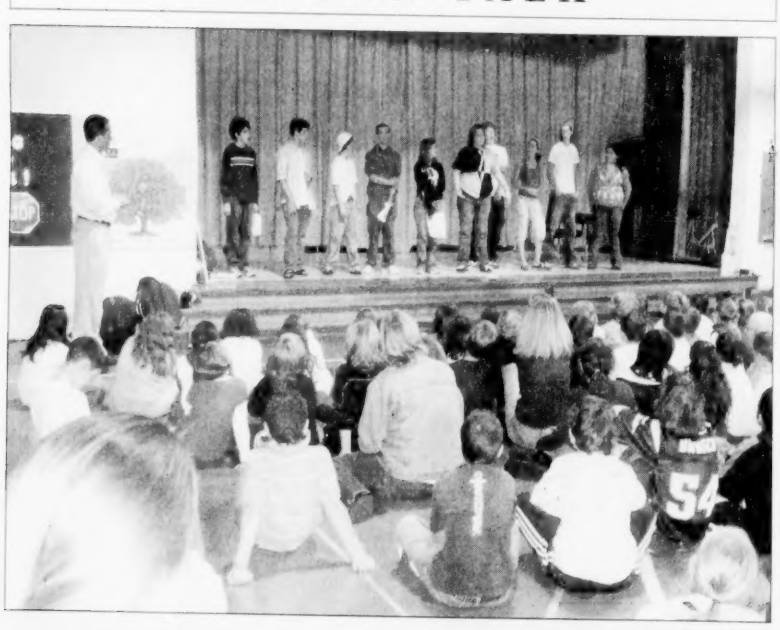

"I wasn't sure exactly what it was going to be like going in, although Alex had presented himself very professionally," he said. "It was on par with any other college radio program I've done, and up there with several of the professional radio news programs."

Heffner's show has aired since the spring of 2005, but it did not take on its current format of having prominent national guests until the spring of 2006, when the midterm election campaigns started heating up.

"It kind of just clicked that it would be more powerful to invite guests from outside of campus and ask the same questions, with a student perspective, that are asked on CNN or MSNBC," Heffner said.

Beverly J. Manning

Was dance instructor, waitress, friend to many

Beverly J. (Arthur) Manning, 75, of Andover, died Tuesday, Nov. 14 at Lawrence General Hospital in Lawrence.

Born in Gellespie, Ill., on Aug. 19, 1931, she moved to Andover as child with her parents, the late Donald and Agnes (Campbell) Arthur.

Ms. Manning, fondly known as "Miss Bev," started her popular, home-based dancing school shortly after graduating from Punchard High.

"Miss Bev" enthusiastically provided dancing instruction to several generations, often at little or no charge to families that otherwise could not afford it. Her lifelong passion, she continued to teach dance until shortly before her death.

Ms. Manning's other career, working as a waitress, included many years at the Den in North Andover until its closing, and continued at Denny's in Lawrence.

She enjoyed treating her customers as friends and was a favorite waitress often requested by patrons.

Of all of her accomplishments, she was most proud of her involvement as mentor and adviser to people struggling with substance abuse.

Having remained sober for 39 years, she devoted countless hours in helping others with their own struggle, her family said. Over the years, many people overcame these difficulties thanks to her guidance and encouragement.

She took great pride in her family. Her four children – Jack, Donna, Joe and Bevi – always had her support in everything they did. She was quick to remind her three grandsons that she deeply loved them "from the tip of their toes to the top of their head."

She was a lifelong member of Free Christian Church in Andover.

She also belonged to the Dance Teachers Club of Boston for many years.

Members of her family include her son John Jr. and his companion Julie of Lawrence, daughter Donna and her husband Chris Phaneuf of North Andover, son Joseph of Andover and daughter Beverly Jr. of North Andover; three grandsons; several aunts, cousins and numerous close friends. She will be sadly missed by all, her family said.

Memorial contributions may be made to Free Christian Church Baptismal Fund, or to the Lawrence General Hospital, 1 General St., Lawrence.

Arrangements were by the Douglas & Johnson Funeral Home, Salem, N.H.

Ruth E. Wight Caron

Was learning resource specialist at Pike School

Ruth E. Wight Caron of Andover died Friday, Nov. 17 at Wingate Nursing Home, surrounded by her family and friends, after a courageous, seven-year battle with breast cancer.

She was born Feb. 12, 1950 in Lawrence, the daughter of the Rev. Helen Wight and the late Rev. William D. Wight.

She accepted Christ as her savior early and served him all the days of her life, her family said.

She was a graduate of Lawrence High School, and Gordon College.

She received her master's degree and CAGS in psychology from Boston College.

Mrs. Caron worked at St. Ann's Home in Methuen as a school counselor, as a psychologist at Thornton's Ferry School in Merrimack, N.H., and for the past seven years as a learning resource specialist at the Pike School in Andover.

She attended Grace Chapel in Lexington where she taught Sunday school for many years. She loved children, her family said.

Members of her family include her husband of 24 years, Richard E. Caron; her son, James; her mother, Rev. Helen Wight; her uncle, who was like a father to her, Joseph Rogers; and her aunt, Ruth Rogers, all of Andover; and many other aunts, uncles, and cousins, who loved her and will miss her dearly.

Opinion

Thanks for community

AS WE GATHER AROUND the Thanksgiving table this week, we have plenty to gratefully acknowledge in the Andover community. This week's paper provides no shortage of examples. For instance, there's the town's...

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT: The business, civic and religious groups in town all help to foster a feeling of community. This week, downtown businesses are pulling together their Holiday Happenings event to kick off the season, the Andona Society held its long-running ball to support youth programs last Saturday, and St. Augustine Parish, along with a number of other religious and school groups, helped collect turkey dinners for hundreds of families.

HISTORIC AWARENESS: The Andover community has contributed to this nation for a long time, and that history has great value. Through its upcoming tour at the Balmoral Condominiums, the Andover Historical Society will both inform people of some of this community history, while also raising money for fellow residents hurting from the May floods that left many at Balmoral homeless for months.

STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT: Andover students frequently perform well academically, but this week let's not forget the water work of the girls swim and dive team. The team rivals the old Bill Russell-led Boston Celtics for dynastic achievement. It's easy for the community to feel good about supporting them.

COMMITTED OFFICIALS: Exhibit A is town Veterans Agent John Doherty. Doherty has turned Veterans and Memorial Day ceremonies into opportunities for the community to recognize the commitment of those who served. Often, the ceremonies are the first time families learn of the courageous acts of their family members. As the Andover High School Band director notes on this page, when Doherty retires from the post next year, he will leave large Army boots to fill.

An extra helping of turkey and stuffing for all.

GIVING MORE THAN THANKS

LETTERS

Vet director's passion, advocacy will be missed

Editor, Townsman:

As the director of the Andover High School Band for the last five years, I have had the privilege to work regularly with John Doherty, the retiring director of Veteran Services for the town of Andover. In my position with the band, I have been involved in many ceremonies and events that he has organized in support of the veterans of the town. I will miss working with him on these events. I thank him for his enormously generous financial and moral support of the band program at AHS, both personally and through his office.

The main reason for this letter is to point out that I am even the more impressed with how passionately he has pursued the interests of Andover's veterans. As the son of a Vietnam veteran, this is of great importance to me. I have heard him called one of the best advocates of veterans' affairs in the state, and I have no doubt that this is the case. For all that he has done for these men and women in recognition of their service to all of us, I think his legacy is more likely to be how much he has taught this town about how important his work is. Will his drive, passion and advocacy be missed? Without a doubt, but he has showed us all how to honor their service, and that it should be a priority. Because of this, it is likely to go on.

The Andover High School Marching Band will be ready to go for Memorial Day next spring, and all such occasions in the future. We will perform these duties with solemn dignity and due reverence, just as we have been taught by John Doherty. I encourage the town, and its citizens, to join us in doing so. All the best to Doherty, and gratitude for all his good work.

GAY MARRIAGE

Favoring a democratic vote not the sign of a 'zealot'

Editor, Townsman:

Last week, gay marriage supporters erupted in enthusiastic cheering when the Massachusetts legislature voted – for the second time – to recess rather than do what they were elected to do...which is represent the will of the citizens of Massachusetts. For the second time, our elected officials (including Andover's two state representatives) used a cheap procedural trick to deny the people of Massachusetts a chance to exercise their right to vote on an issue of importance.

"We're done, we won, it's over," Arline Isaacson of the Gay and Lesbian Political Caucus said. "No one wants this to continue except for the zealots on the other side and Romney because it helps his race."

Really? Zealots? Is democracy a concept only a zealot can appreciate? How do you suppose gay marriage proponents would react if the issue fell on the other side of the fence? What if gay marriage were legislatively banned in Massachusetts, and gay marriage supporters were repeatedly denied their voting rights through legislative subterfuge? I bet they wouldn't be cheering then.

Despite what Isaacson may believe, no one wins when the elected officials of the government of the people, by the people, and for the people decides to let their own bias affect their duty. Both Reps. Barry Finegold and Barbara L'Italien have made it clear, by their own statements, that they voted for recess – in effect, to deny all of us the right to vote on the issue – because of their personal beliefs. Is that why they were elected? Because they know so much better than you or I what is good and right for the people of Massachusetts that they will deny us the right to vote in order to save us from our own ignorance? What else explains their motivation, if not that?

Only state Sen. Susan Tucker did the right thing, refusing to sully her reputation and her oath of office. She knew that, regardless of her own personal beliefs and opinions on the issue, the right and proper course of action is a ballot vote by the legislature – not procedural hijinks.

We are being stripped of our voting rights by those elected to both protect our rights and represent the will of the people. No matter where you stand on the issue, both sides should be outraged and alarmed.

WHEELS OF JUSTICE

Enough with the 'histrionics'

Editor, Townsman:

I suspect most residents have just about had enough of the silly circular arguments of the Ron Francis-Tom Meyers flaks and their histrionics about freedom of speech and the high school's preventing the Wheels of Justice from addressing our students some three weeks ago. Enough with the madness, and stop the whining already! No one is trying to muzzle Francis, personal biases and tendencious readings of Middle East history. Nor is anyone demanding that the school shelter our children from disturbing issues and controversial subjects. We only ask that contentious extra-curricular questions – like the Middle East conflict, which figures nowhere in our regular high school curricula to begin with – be contextualized and introduced by qualified practitioners in the field, in a dispassionate, unbiased, academic manner. Let it be said again: Physics teachers must be allowed to espouse and advocate for whatever cause they deem worthy and just. On their own clocks they can preach that "the Earth is flat" and "is the center of the Universe" if they so desire! However, on my children's clock, on school property, and in the classroom, they must be as impartial, even-handed, analytical, reasoned, and unbiased as possible. That is to say nothing of their obligation to stick to the academic fields in which they received their training, and for which we pay them to teach our children. Anything short of that – which in my own line of work would be considered "practicing without a license" – can be grounds for reprimand, dismissal or worse.

Minister shows Middle East bias

Editor, Townsman:

The Rev. Ralph Galen, a minister of the Unitarian Universalist Congregation in Andover, wrote in last week's Townsman that, "I cannot think of a single Unitarian Universalist minister who would have supported shutting out the Wheels of Justice speakers." I lack the necessary knowledge to speak about Universalist ministers in general, but maybe the reason Galen does not support the exclusion of the Wheels of Justice from Andover High School is because he seems to share some of their biases.

Galen referred to the recent conflict between Israel and Lebanon by noting that "sovereign democratic states such as Israel (in Lebanon)...can indiscriminately bomb civilian areas with barbaric cluster bombs." What Galen does not tell readers of the Townsman in his letter is that the international organization Human Rights Watch condemned the Lebanese terror group Hizbullah for using cluster bombs. Hizbullah, aside from being a terror group, is officially part of the Lebanese government. Only bias can explain Galen's condemnation of one side for using cluster bombs but not the other.

Additionally, Galen criticized the decision to cancel the Wheels of Justice's visit on the basis of free speech, but he did not criticize the fact that a pro-Israeli viewpoint was not scheduled to be presented to the students. How can he explain this inconsistency?

School's online parental connection worth expanding

Editor, Townsman:

As a parent of a 2006 graduate and a freshman at Andover High School, I would like to express my appreciation to the high school administration and faculty for their continuing efforts and support of the Edline program.

My daughter was part of the pilot a few years ago and I was immediately impressed by the resources Edline offered to the parents. The high school years are certainly a time in parenting when you need to let go, but it is also a time when in many ways you need to pay closer attention. Edline offers easy access to parents who are interested in their child's progress and, when used to its fullest capacity, can give a snapshot of the course curriculum as well as what is going on in the classroom.

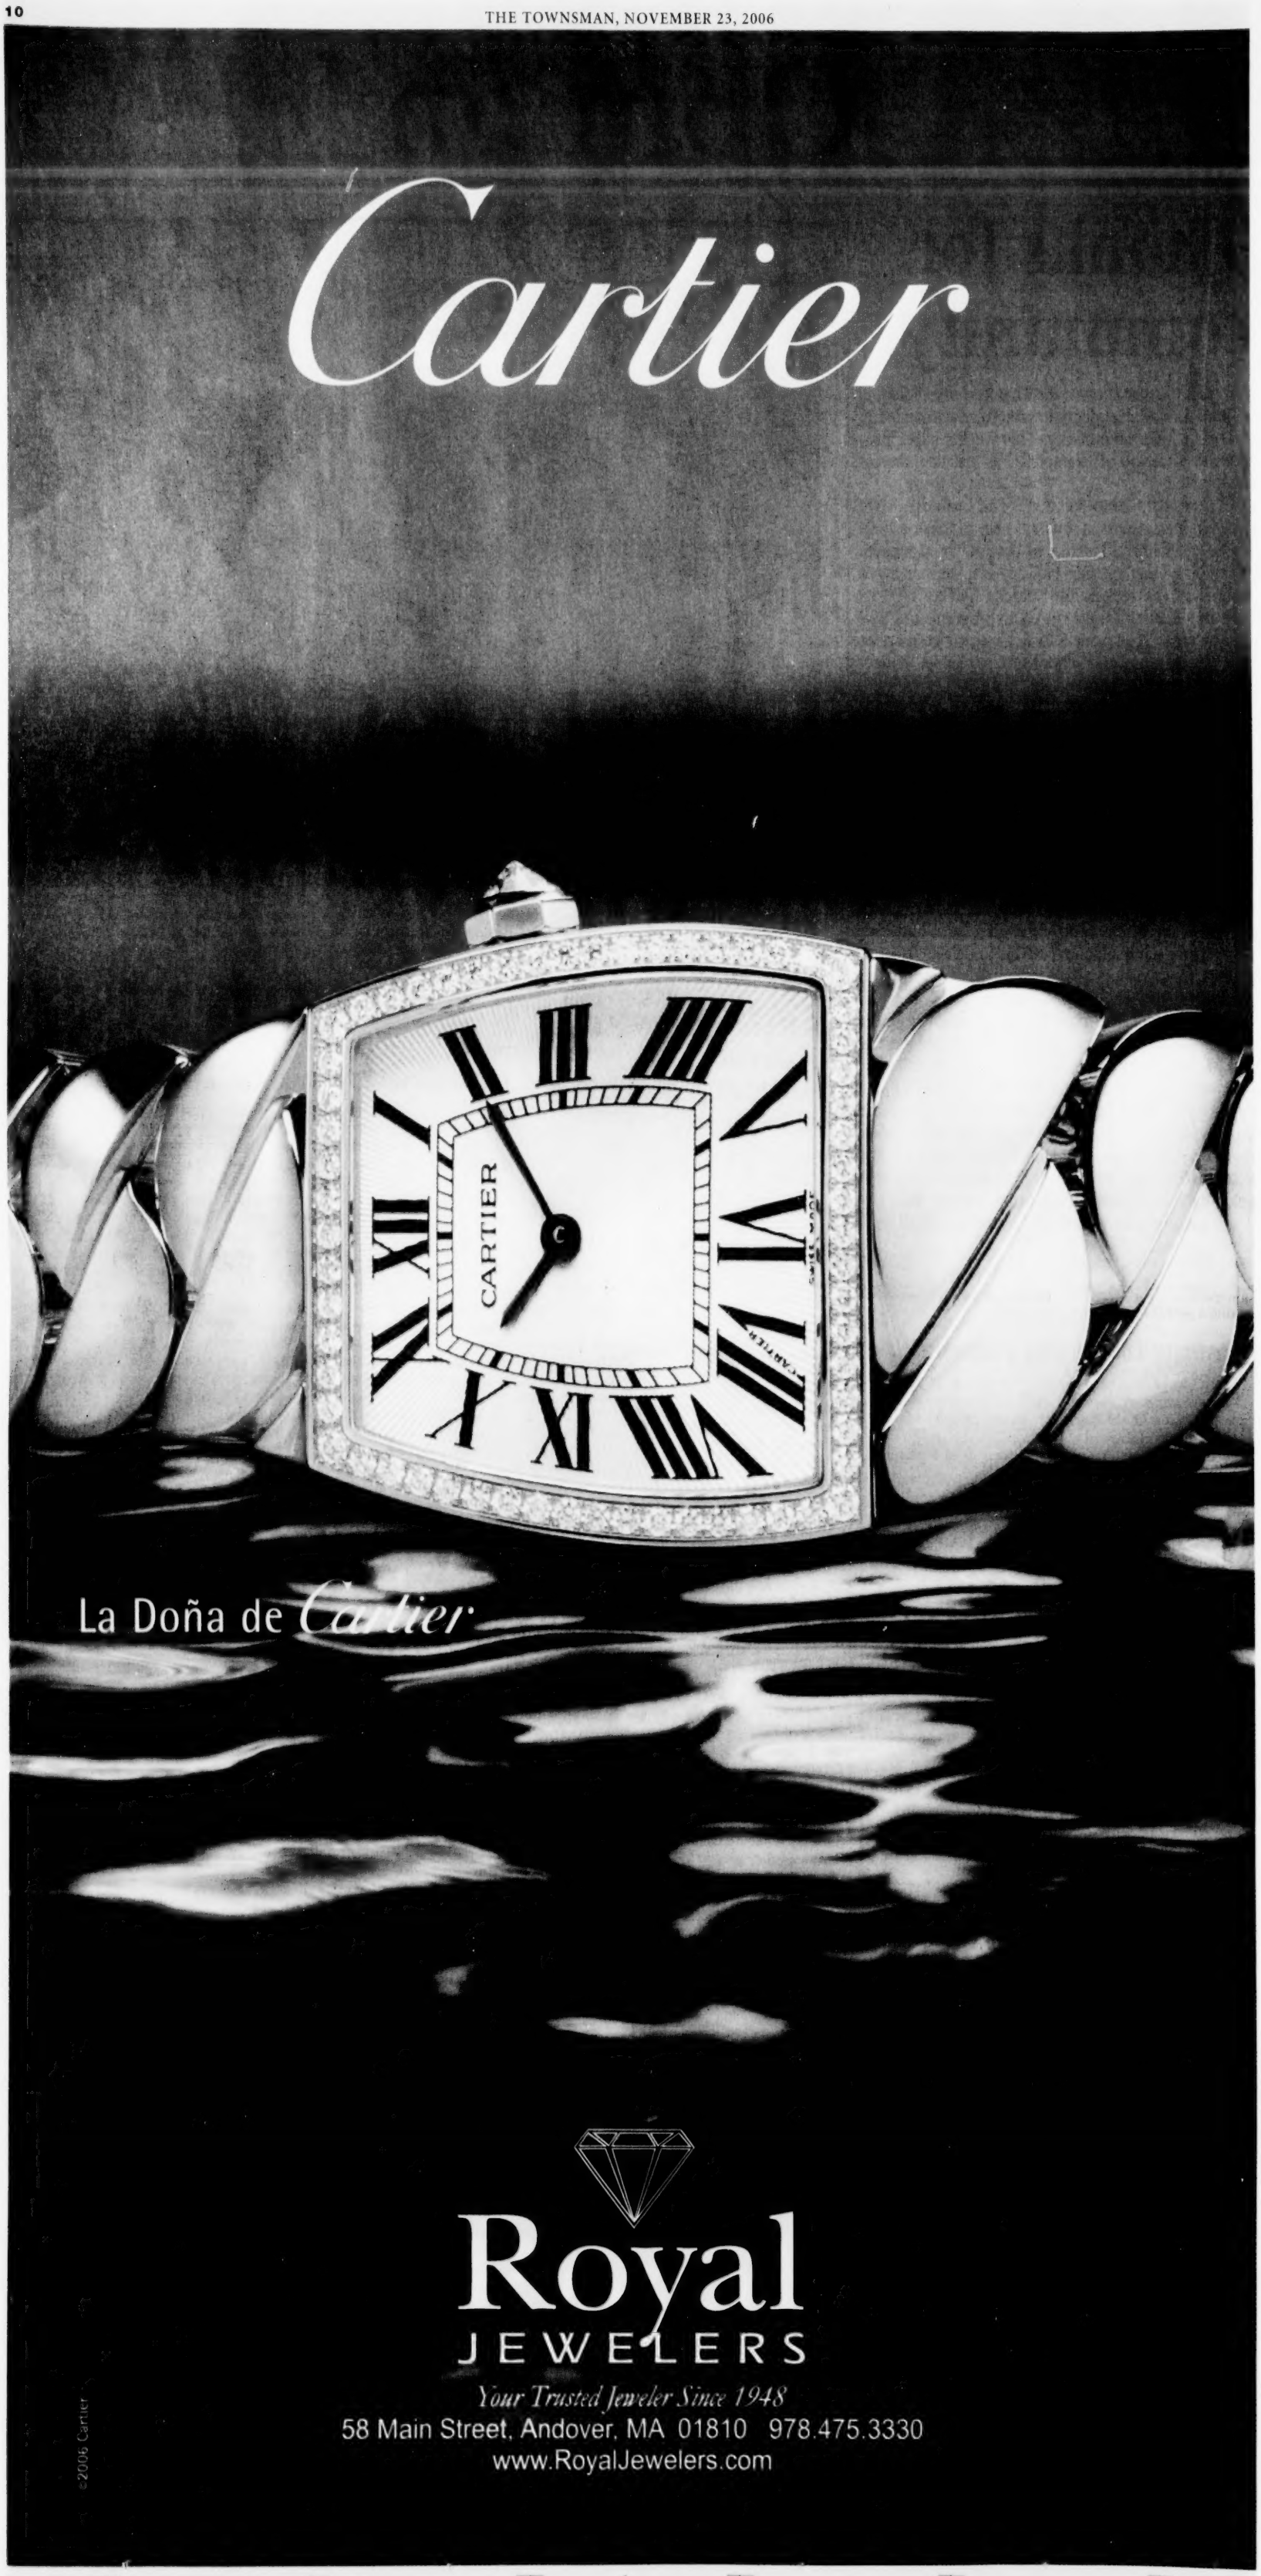

It is an unobtrusive way to stay informed.

I have heard from countless parents who are appreciative of this invaluable service. Andover High School is a big place with the student population on a consistent upward trend. Edline is another way to reach out to the student and parent community and is a key factor in the continuing effort to make this environment feel smaller and more personal. It is the hope of many parents that the Edline program will expand beyond AHS to the middle school level.

We look forward to seeing this program progress and are encouraged as we, hopefully, look towards an increasing number of teachers who are using the program in the school district.

A night at the ball

'Sunset in Paris' theme for Andona's 35th fall ball

By April A. Guilmet

Although some feared this year might mark the end of the Andona Ball, the event is still drawing crowds and compliments, say its organizers.

Held Nov. 18 at the Castleton banquet facilities in Windham, N.H., the 35th Andona Ball was a whopping success, according to co-chairwomen Leslie Burte and Lesa Botti.

"We had such positive feedback in terms of attendance, food, the new location, the decorations and the band – so many people had fun," said Burte, noting that this year's theme – "A Sunset in Paris," was rife with French ambience.

The Andona Ball, which was last held at the Andover Country Club in 2004, is one of the biggest fundraisers for the Andona Society, a 55-year old organization dedicated to enhancing educational, athletic and cultural enrichment programs for the youth of Andover. But for the past several years, ticket sales had been down, Burte said.

At $80 per ticket, she added, the event was due for a makeover. Which in this case meant a new location and the additions of livelier music and a more art-oriented silent auction.

"It was our first time at Castleton and we were very pleased with their proximity to Andover as well as the food," Burte said. Attendees enjoyed bidding on items from Andover art galleries as well as original photographs by local artist Patty Slater. An eight piece band, Madhouse with John Keegan, provided upbeat tunes for dancing, dining and bidding. And eat they did. Although Burte and co-chairwoman Lesa Botti had not yet totaled the fundraising numbers as of Monday, attendance was estimated at about 260 people.

While Burte said the new location may have added life to the event, Botti was not completely convinced. "I think many people may have liked to stay closer to home," she said. Botti added that next year's ball could held at Andover Country Club again.

"It's always trying to determine what's going to work and with every one's busy lifestyles these days, it's not

Acting Out tunes in to radio play

FANS OF THE CLASSIC HOLIDAY STORY It's a Wonderful Life should be sure to turn out – or better yet, tune in – for a "1940s radio" rendition of the play at The Stage, 60 Island St., in Lawrence on Dec. 1 and 2.

A production of the Acting Out Theater Workshop, this will be the first "radio" play put on by the group, according to owner Linda Schoonmaker.

With actors dressed in 1940s-era garb and a set designed like an old broadcast station, scripts will be read into microphones just as in the golden age of radio. A sound-effects table, manned by Peter Wood, an instructor at the Essex Art Center in Lawrence, will compliment the action narrated by the actors.

"There's several Andover residents in the cast," said Schoonmaker.

In addition to cast members, Andover resident Penny Kohut is a director and co-owner of Acting Out.

"No modern technology is used at all," Schoonmaker said, "just like the old days."

Doorknobs, wheels and plastic cellophane, among other things, will be used to capture the sound effects to go along with the play, and old-fashioned commercial breaks will be performed by three female actors impersonating the style of the Andrews Sisters, Schoonmaker said.

The performance, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. each night, with an additional 2 p.m. matinee on Dec. 2, will be recorded by Lawrence radio station WCCM-AM and re-broadcast at a later date.

The play calls for an entertaining and unique twist to a familiar story.

"That's the beauty of it," Schoonmaker said.

SEASON OF GIVING

Students in grades kindergarden through grade 5 at High Plain Elementary School took part in a turkey/food drive to assist the Lowell Wish Project.

Diane Sonberg, the coordinator, described it as a first-time, community-service event in which the children were asked to donate $1 and a certain holiday canned item.

At the end of three weeks, organizers had collected $600 in cash and more than 300 food items, allowing them to assemble 30 turkey baskets for this charity. The Lowell Wish Project reported that this was the most that any school has ever donated to them.

Each basket contained a $20 gift card to Hannaford's along with eight to 10 canned food items and a disposable roasting pan.

The kids had an after-school assembly last week to decorate the boxes and put the food items into them. About 70 students (pictured at right) came to finish the donations, Sonberg said.

South School's seventh annual Giving Tree holiday gift shop opens to the public on Tuesday, Dec. 5 from 6 to 8 p.m. Parents are busy preparing and packaging gifts. Displayed in the cafeteria lobby area will be gifts for everyone: for children, mothers, fathers, grandparents, teachers, babysitters, and even for pets, organizers said. "Come and see the selection of reasonably priced items for the holiday season. You'll find cookie mixes and candles, bulbs and wreaths, even CDs and tools for Dad, and toys, of course," they said.

This is an event that is designed to give kids and adults alike the opportunity to express their generosity of spirit to friends and family by selecting from a variety of gifts and treasures in a price range affordable to all.

Proceeds benefit South School through PTO-funded programs and also benefit Andover ABC (A Better Chance) organization.

The PTO-sponsored Holiday Open House for students, family, and friends is Thursday Nov. 30, 6 to 8 p.m. Daytime hours for students will continue through Dec. 8.

South School's doors will open to the public at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 5.

Project Home Again is hosting "Home is Where the Warmth Is," a blanket drive, fund-raiser, and craft fair on Sunday, Dec. 3 from 8:45 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Temple Emanuel on Haggetts Pond Road.

Townspeople are encouraged to bring new and gently used blankets and comforters that will be donated to area residents to keep warm this winter.

There will also be a crafts fair offering tote bags, scarves and gloves, jewelry, and more, with a portion of all sales goes to the Project Home Again Heating Fund, which pays the heating bills for some of the Merrimack Valley's neediest families.

In addition, holiday candy from Sweet Mimi's will be on sale. For more information, contact Nancy Kannell at Temple Emanuel at 978-475-1356.

There will be a Thanksgiving service on Thursday, Nov. 23 at 10:30 a.m. at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 278 North Main St.

The service includes readings for the occasion, and an opportunity for those attending to express their thoughts and gratitude. All are welcome.

Goldman moves practice

Andover resident Margo P. Goldman has relocated her practice of adult psychiatry and psychotherapy from Wakefield to 90 Main St. in Andover.

Hours are by appointment and she offers therapy with or without medication for both individuals and couples dealing with problem relationships, life transitions, depression, anxiety and parenting issues.

Goldman has lived in Andover since 1986.

Tateosian joins ERA Home

John Tateosian has joined ERA Home & Family Real Estate's marketing team and is working out of its Andover Marketing Center at 28 Chestnut St.

John Tateosian

Tateosian was the owner of the John Charles Salon and Day Spa in Elm Square. After relinquishing his lease, he began working part-time at The Point of View on Park Street in Andover, which allowed him to explore new career options.

Ultimately, Tateosian decided to study real estate, took the real estate sales course, passed the exam, and began looking for an agency.

"I have known John for a long time, and I was very happy when John decided to join our team. He is highly motivated and makes a point to introduce himself and his services to anyone and everyone he meets. And because he grew up in town, went to school here, and is active in his business here, John knows lots of people, and lots of people know him," Webster said in a release.

■ TAX INCREASE

Major said.

While the board voted to adopt a tax factor of 1.46, Major pointed out that a lower factor of 1.43 would more closely link tax increases with increases in property value. Adopting a tax factor of 1.43 would have lessened the tax increase on commercial property by 2.14 percent.

No members of the business community were present at the meeting, although Joe Bevilacqua, president of the Merrimack Valley Chamber of Commerce, urged selectmen to lower or maintain the tax burden on businesses at the board meeting on Nov. 6.

Two owners of residential property urged the board to lessen the burden on homeowners.

"I have residents on my street, and they just can't afford it," said John Pasquale. "They can't afford an increase."

While the average homeowner will pay 4.13 percent more, the average commercial property tax bill will increase by $2,386.47 (6.25 percent), and the average industrial property tax bill will rise $1,521.07 (2.16 percent).

Main Street was closed to cars for hayrides, caroling and shopping during last year's Holiday Happenings. This year, businesses are planning to add more festivities, including the opportunity to roast chestnuts on an open fire.

Holiday Happenings next weekend

Roasted chestnuts and all the trimmings

By April A. Guilmet

The sights, sounds and smells of an old-fashioned holiday season will be alive and well in Andover this December, when the sounds of festive music – from Jewish folk music to Christian choir anthems – will fill the roast chestnut-scented air of the downtown business district.

On Dec. 1 and 2, the third annual Holiday Happenings will return to Main Street, this time bigger than ever, say organizers. Main Street will be closed to traffic on Friday evening from 5 to 9 p.m., from Punchard Avenue all the way to Elm Square.

"We have lots of new things this year," said Betsy Powers, chairwoman of Andover Business Center Association and owner of Culinary Concepts. Powers, who is one of the event's coordinators, said she hopes next week's event will truly capture the feeling of an old-fashioned Christmas.

Back by popular demand are last year's horse-drawn hayrides. Powers said this event was so popular in 2005 that there'll be two hayrides this year rather than one. People will be able to board rides at either Olde Andover Village or in the parking lot of the new Enterprise Bank, off High Street.

New this year is the "Find Your Twin" contest, sponsored by Butler Bank, soon to open in the North Main Street building that once housed Friendly Ice Cream. What's a "Find Your Twin" contest, you ask? Attendees will be given tags with numbers on them, Powers said.

"Some will be gold, others red. Your job is to find the person wearing the same number as you, but in the opposite color," she added. Winners will be eligible for a variety of prizes donated by local merchants.

"We're working closely with town officials and many not-for-profit organizations [on events and attractions [such as Holiday Happenings] which add vitality to our downtown," said Rosemary Radulski, vice president of Andover Business Center Association and director of business development for Butler Bank.

As for musical entertainment, there will truly be something to please everyone, Powers said. Boston's Figgy Pudding Carolers will don their finest Victorian attire and meander through the crowds. Also strolling will be the Mad Bavarian Holiday Brass Band, among other groups.

Bill Sharp (right) and the Mad Bavarian Brass Band will return to perform Christmas carols in downtown Andover.

AHS ROUNDUP

8th straight state crown for swimmers

Girls swim & dive team tops a Division 1 field of 18 at MIAA State Championship Meet

By Rick Harrison

Once again, when it counted, the quality- and quantity-laden Andover High School girls swim and dive team came up huge, capturing its eighth straight state championship Sunday morning at the MIT Zesiger Aquatic Center in Cambridge.

They had 19 qualifiers and prevailed on depth and balance (see story, page 1)

Senior Tiffany Petzold produced a first- and second-place finish, junior Kristi Korsberg contributed a first and third, and sophomore diver Katie O'Connell was tops off the one-meter board.

That trio accounted for 73 of the Lady Warriors' points with their individual performances.

In a somewhat unexpected development AHS did not win any of the three relays – but did nail down a pair of seconds and a third for 76 more points.

The scoring system in multi-team meets awards 16 points for first place in individual events, 13 for second and then 12, 11, 10, 9, 7, 5, 4, 3, 2 and 1 for the other 10 places. The points are doubled (32, 26, etc.) for the three relays.

At the North Sectionals, Andover made a shambles of what was projected to be a down-to-the-wire three-team catfight, beating second place Acton-Boxboro by 119.5 points and third-place Chelmsford by 128.

With Tiffany Petzold emerging as a double individual winner – and anchoring two victorious relays – the Lady Warriors splashed to an unprecedented eighth straight MIAA North Sectional Championship at Harvard University's Blodgett Pool in Cambridge.

This latest State title comes after the Lady Warriors finished 12-0 overall, including 8-0 in MVC dual meets to stretch the seemingly-invincible locals unprecedented win streak through 96 consecutive dual meets, and won a seventh straight MVC Championship Meet crown and eighth straight North Sectional title.

All-Conference

Andover once again dominated the Merrimack Valley All-Conference Team, grabbing seven of the 13 positions on the 2006 squad.

Tiffany Petzold and Amanda Cecere of Chelmsford were named MVC Division 1 co-Swimmers of the Year.

Joining Petzold on the team are Kristi Korsberg, diver Katie O'Connell, Ellen Cody, Jenny Meltz, Erin McAuliffe and Cassandra Valler.

Marilyn Fitzgerald is the MVC 1 Coach of the Year.

Jen Geary and Brittany Ross earned MVC All-Star recognition.

Receiving Honorable Mention status are Allison Alwan, Ginny Gibson, Melissa Alois and divers Lauren Colby and Jillian Bargar.

Champs' roster

Members of the 2006 AHS championship squad include senior four-time state champs Jillian Bargar, Capt. Jackie Booth, Liz Cremin, Ellen DeLisio, Margaret Doherty, Kerry Gaj, Capt. Jen Geary, Erin McAuliffe, Jenny Meltz, Tiffany Petzold, Allison Ryans and Capt. Cassandra Valler.

Juniors are Melissa Alois, Allison Alwan, Emily Benham, Bridget Carroll, Ellen Cody, Lauren Colby, Devin Geary, Ginny Gibson, Kristi Korsberg, Kelly Mahoney, Alexa Moccia, Beth O'Connor and Courtney Petzold.

Sophomores Caroline Biles, Heather Brown, Andrea Leahy, Katie O'Connell, Erica Potts, Natalia Przewozniak, Leah Psoinos, Shahaan Rangwalla, Jillian Ricciardelli, Margot Ryan and Emily Stone.

MIAA State Division 1 Championship Meet

OK, this one was nerve-wracking.

But the best of the best came through.

Tiffany Petzold once again was unchallenged in the 200-yard IM, winning the event by almost five seconds for the second straight week with a personal-best 2:09.35 clocking to Reading High runner-up Jenn Trodden's 2:14.09.

Kristi Korsberg touched first in the 200 freestyle, her 1:52.96 nipping Chelmsford archrival Katelyn Martin (1:53.05) by 9/100ths of a second.

North Sectional champ Katie O'Connell piled up 436.70 points, 20 points more than the previous week, and is setting herself up to become the most successful diver in AHS history by the time she graduates in the spring of 2009.

No one was close to the Andover talent as runner-up Renee Glidden of Acton-Boxboro had 406.95 points.

The Lady Warriors once again dominated the diving, with Lauren Colby third (354.85 points) and Jillian Bargar sixth (333.85).

Petzold's second came in the 100 free, where the North champ's 53.29 clocking was a fraction of a tick behind victor Emma Santoro from South Sectional school Durfee High of Fall River (53.16).

Korsberg's third was achieved in the 100 butterfly (personal-best 59.82).

Ellen Cody matched her second-place showing at Sectionals in the 500 with a personal-best 5:11.17, but once again no one was going to catch Katelyn Martin of Chelmsford who eclipsed the five-minute mark with a state-meet record 4:56.37.

Her time bettered the mark set in 2001 by Andover's Sally Brown (4:57.54).

Allison Alwan produced one of the champions' finest and most important swims of the day, nailing down a key second-place finish in the 100 backstroke (1:01.14).

Two more Andover standouts were right behind their teammates in the 500 free and 100 back, Jenny Meltz third in the 500 with a 5:15.07 and Erin McAuliffe third in the backstroke with a personal-best 1:01.76.

Touching fourth for the Lady Warriors were Jen Geary in the 200 IM (personal-best 2:16.83) and Melissa Alois in the 100 breaststroke (personal-best 1:08.95).

Cody also broke two minutes in the 200 free, taking fifth in 1:59.69, while Allison Alwan was sixth in the 100 fly (1:01.49).

The 200 medley relay of McAuliffe, Melissa Alois, Korsberg and Petzold placed second by .07 to Chelmsford (1:52.72 to 1:52.65).

The 400 free quartet of Brittany Ross, Alwan, Korsberg and Petzold was less than one second behind Chelmsford (3:40.43 to 3:39.57) to officially clinch the win.

The 200 free relay of Ross, Alwan, Gaj and Jen Geary settled for third (1:45.03).

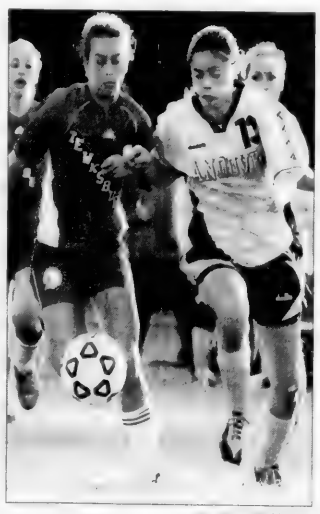

Meltz finished ninth in the 200 free (2:03.10) and Ginny Gibson was 13th (personal-best 2:05.74).

In the 200 IM, McAuliffe was eighth (2:18.50) and Cassandra Valler ninth (2:19.99).

Ross finished eighth in the 50 free sprint (26.01) and 14th in the 100 free (56.90), while Kerry Gaj was ninth in the 100 back (1:04.90) and 17th in the 100 free (57.68).

Jen Geary contributed seventh in the 500 free (5:25.58) and sophomore Heather Brown was 20th (5:45.23).

Sophomore Andrea Leahy placed 16th in the 100 back (personal-best 1:07.09), while in the 100 breast freshman Alexandra Alois was a solid seventh (personal-best 1:11.60), Valler ninth (1:11.83) and Bridget Carroll 14th (personal-best 1:14.37).

CROSS COUNTRY

Casey Harrison placed 24th and Maggie Cosgrove was 59th in a field of 149 runners at the 2006 MIAA All-State Division 1 Girls Cross Country Championship Meet held last weekend at the Northfield Mountain Recreation Center.

The outstanding Andover High harriers were facing the best of the best, an elite field comprised of qualifiers from several statewide Class Meets held the previous weekend.

Harrison covered the tough, hilly 5K (3.1-mile) Northfield course in 20 minutes, 33 seconds.

She was only a half-minute behind the 8th-place finisher in a race won by Newton North senior Jessica Barton in 19:14.

Cosgrove, a senior, was clocked in 21:09 as she wrapped up her brief but impressive cross country career, and this week began practices for what should be another championship basketball season.

Cosgrove and Harrison had earned their way to All-States by finishing 9th and 20th, respectively, at the MIAA Eastern Mass. Division 1 Championship Meet held on an unseasonably balmy day at Franklin Park in Boston.

WARRIOR FOOTBALL

Savoring the scent of victory on Thanksgiving Day

By Rick Harrison

ALTHOUGH THERE IS NO PLAY-OFF BERTH or potential Super Bowl Game at stake for the 2006 Andover High varsity football team, there will be no lack of incentives for the locals when they step on the Lovely Field turf Thursday morning for the traditional Thanksgiving Day showdown against visiting Central Catholic.

Kickoff time is 10:30 a.m., scheduling that allows people to attend/participate in the Feaster Five Road Race before going to the football game.

A Golden Warriors' victory would be the perfect exclamation point to a successful season – conceivably costing the archrival Raiders an Eastern Mass. playoff berth.

An Andover triumph would also give the locals just their third 8-win season in 15 years, the others 8-2 in 1991 and 10-1 in 2004.

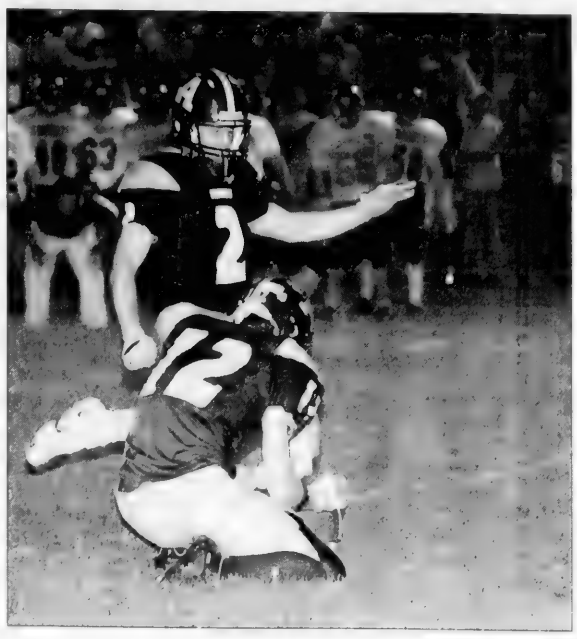

Coach Ken Maglio's crew enters with a 7-3 overall record after winning four of its first five starts this fall, then losing two straight before winning the most recent two starts against Methuen and non-league Marblehead.

If AHS can topple Central, which clinched at least a share of the MVC title by beating Methuen (35-7) recently, and either Lowell or Dracut or both win on Turkey Day, the Raiders could be odd-man out for the playoffs.

It could all come down to a coin flip, or if Central loses, Lowell wins and Dracut loses then LHS would go to the post-season for the first time ever.

A Thanksgiving victory for the Golden Warriors would also mean a winning record in the conference – Andover entering the Central clash at 4-3 in league play.

Central is 8-2 overall and 6-1 league (see standings, below).

Andover kicker Ken Masse had the winning field goal against North Andover, winning 23-20 in overtime back on Friday, Sept. 8. Masse is tied with quarterback Mike Pierce for points scored this season with 78.

Dynamic duo

Leading the potent AHS attack, which is averaging 28.2 points per game, are junior quarterback Mike Pierce and senior running back/placekicker Ken Masse.

Both enter the final game with 78 points this season, Pierce on 13 rushing touchdowns and Masse on six rushing TDs, a scoring reception, 27 PAT kicks and three field goals.

Masse will wrap up an outstanding three-year high school career that has seen him score 151 points thus far, including school records for field goals (11) and extra points (70).

Pierce has also pitched 12 TD passes this fall and 16 overall, while both players have more than 500 yards rushing and Pierce over 1,000 yards passing.

Senior fullback Corey Steele boasts nine TDs and 54 points, and the top AHS receivers are Matt Rayner and Peter Hanson with five and four touchdown catches respectively.

Pierce also does the punting and is averaging about 36 yards per kick.

Andover has outscored the opposition, 282-211, and despite allowing more than 20 points per game the locals have received consistently strong defensive play from lineman J.B. Israel, linebacker Sam Clark, back Brendan Hughes, linebacker Jon Crush, back Derrick Beasley, safety Joe Lattari and lineman Gordon DuBois.

"We've gotten off to very sluggish starts in our last two games against Methuen and Marblehead," said coach Maglio. "We definitely can't afford to do that with Central. We have to be ready to play right from the opening kickoff."

Stop Leavitt

If the Golden Warriors are to defeat Central, a main objective will be putting the clamps on top Central ballcarrier Mike Leavitt.

Leavitt, a junior, is among the leading scorers and rushers in Eastern Mass. with 108 points and 1,281 yards on the ground.

Big Chris Morales is also a threat in the backfield with 28 points and 758 yards rushing.

Sophomore QB Shain Jowett had one of his best games in the recent romp over Methuen, pitching a 29 yard TD pass (fourth of season) and scoring his second rushing TD on a five yard run.

Placekicker Colin Burkhart has booted six field goals and 20 extra points.

The Raiders have beaten non-leaguers Lawrence High (22-6) and Foxboro (9-5), along with MVC foes Dracut (28-21), Billerica (20-7), Haverhill (35-0), Tewksbury (20-6), Chelmsford (25-14) and Methuen.

The losses were to non-league St. John's Prep of Danvers (27-17) and Lowell (13-10).

"Clinching at least a share of the MVC title was obviously big for us," said Central head coach Chuck Adamopoulos. "But, in terms of playoffs, we haven't won anything yet and can't afford to look past Andover (to the post-season)."

"The Andover quarterback (Pierce) is an outstanding triple threat as a runner, passer and kicker. He's a big kid (5'11", 190) with speed and a strong arm. And they have some receivers who make plays."

"They've had a good season," continued Adamopoulos. "It's an excellent rivalry – in all sports – and this should be a great test for us. Both teams have a healthy respect for one another."

Head coach Adamopoulos' crew has dominated the Turkey Day rivalry in recent years, winning 22-6 last year after AHS prevailed, 22-13, two years ago.

Central has won seven of the last nine games and 12 of the last 15 on Thanksgiving.

6th Annual Larry Robinson 10 Miler & 5K Race and Alex Miliotis 5K Walk

Here are the 10-mile and top 5K results, by race, for runners taking part in the the 6th annual Larry Robinson 10 Miler and 5K Race held Sunday, Nov. 12 along with the Alex Miliotis 5K Walk, at the AHS Field House. All proceeds from the registration fee for the 10-mile and 5K races go directly to Innovative Basic Cancer Research at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in memory of former Principal Larry Robinson, who died in 1999, and AHS student athlete Alex Miliotis, who died in 2002 at 16. Fees for the 5K walk will be donated in Alex's memory to the Alex Team Foundation. Last year's event raised more than $20,000 for cancer research, according to race director Roy Dennehy. Dennehy organizes the annual Larry Robinson Race to support his fundraising commitment to the the Dana-Farber Marathon Challenge, which overall helped raised $4.1 million for the Claudia Adams Barr Program in Innovative Basic Research at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

Let's talk a little turkey

It's time to gobble down some yummy turkey! Roasted turkey stars on most Thanksgiving tables this week. However, the turkey in grocery stores is not the same as turkey in the wild.

Today's farm turkeys are quite different from their wild turkey ancestors. They have bigger breasts (for more delicious white meat) and are not as smart.

Domestic turkeys

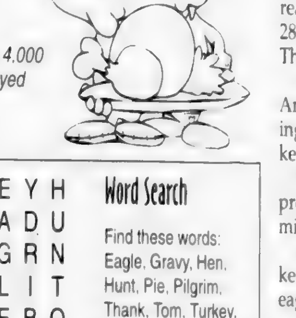

Turkeys have been bred and raised for food for several hundred years.

Wild turkeys originated in Mexico and spread across North America.

Aztecs and Mayans kept flocks of turkeys. Navajo tribes gave up on keeping wild turkeys out of their corn fields. Instead, they fenced them in and fed them. Indians used turkeys as a source of food and feathers. The animal became a symbol of friendship.

Christopher Columbus carried turkeys from the New World back to Europe.

When the Pilgrims came to New England, they brought domestic turkeys with them. Once here, they found the wild ancestors of the domestic birds. Their neighbors, the Wampanoags, hunted wild turkeys with bows and arrows. The Pilgrims discovered both types of turkey made a delicious dinner.

Turkey trivia

Sesame Street's Big Bird owes a lot to turkeys. His costume has 4,000 turkey feathers dyed bright yellow.

Wild turkeys

Wild turkeys are divided into five subspecies. They live across the United States and Mexico.

Wild turkeys are fast. They can run at 25 miles per hour and fly at 55 miles per hour. However, they can't fly very far.

The wild turkey is covered with about 6,000 feathers. Feathers keep the birds warm and dry and allow them to fly.

The male tom turkey struts and shows off his beautiful plumage. The gobbler's feathers glitter with metallic iridescence. Colors vary from red, green, copper, and bronze to gold.

The female hen is a drabber brownish color so she can blend in with the surroundings.

Turkeys roost in trees but nest on the ground. Each hen lays 10 to 12 eggs, called a clutch. She turns and rearranges the eggs. She keeps them warm for about 28 days until they hatch. The babies are called poults. They leave the nest within hours of hatching.

Over 10 million wild turkeys ranged across North American 200 years ago. However, unregulated hunting and loss of habitant nearly wiped out wild turkeys. The number dropped to about 30,000.

Wild turkeys have returned, thanks to restoration projects and hunting rules. Today, there are over four million turkeys in the wild.

Ben Franklin thought the North American wild turkey should be the national bird. However, the bald eagle won out.

Today, Franklin would be proud to see both wild turkeys and bald eagles making a healthy comeback in the wild.

Newspaper in Education Activity

Find an advertisement for something to eat in your newspaper.

If you find a grocery store ad, shop for Thanksgiving dinner and add up how much it will cost.

If you find a restaurant ad, see if they will be open for Thanksgiving dinner. Does the ad list a price? If so, what it would cost for your family?

Maddox Chiropractic

Chiropractic ... Before You Play!

Just about every sport provides some health benefits; however, not all activity offers the same advantages. As an example, jogging, skiing, rugby, wrestling, dance and the martial arts are excellent body conditioners.

However, from a chiropractic point of view, these activities may be strenuous on the joints, ligaments and the spinal column.

Jogging reduces tension, improves our ability to delivery oxygen to various parts of the body, and improves blood circulation. On the other hand, jogging can also jar the body, particularly the spine, and lead to subluxations (spinal misalignment).

While we do not discourage these forms of exercise, we do advise the "weekend sports warrior" to avoid over-exertion and to have a complete spinal examination before participating in any sports.

A spinal exam can determine if there are physical limitations present that may increase your risk of injury. Chiropractic corrects subluxations, conditions the muscles and promotes total healing of soft tissue. That's how chiropractic improves muscle balance and coordination, which ultimately, helps to prevent injury. Every sport – from fishing to football – involves body mechanics! Chiropractic restores and maintains proper dynamics of motion. And whether you're doing backyard cartwheels, riding bikes, or bowling – you rely on the proper dynamics of body movement to avoid injuries and to achieve "peak performance."

Strains, sprains and other common injuries are often caused by faulty joint mobility. A joint with restricted movement will not only be more easily sprained but it will also place increased demands on other joints rendering them more susceptible to injury.

Chiropractic care can help improve athletic performance by enhancing joint function and balancing muscle coordination. Your body is like a finely tuned machine. The better your parts move together, the more efficient your performance will be.

The integration of your bony structures and supportive soft tissues keeps your body balanced! Chiropractic puts it together for your good health.

■ ANDONA SOCIETY

March 3 at the Lawrence Elks Andover Ballroom. The event will feature a disc jockey, Salsa dancing lessons, Latin music, tapas-style appetizers, hand-rolled cigars to order and, in homage to the popular Dancing with the Stars television show, a salsa-dancing presentation.

A parent of two children ages 8 and 11, Burte has been a member of Andona for three years and said she'd joined Andona both to help Andover's youth and for its social aspect.

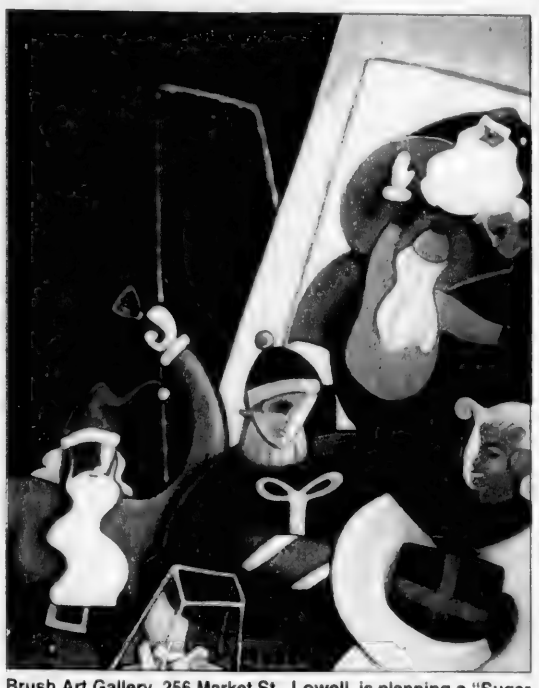

Botti said she joined Andona in 2002 when she was preparing for the birth of her first child.

"I wasn't going to be working anymore and it seemed like a great way to meet new people and become part of the community," she said.

Boston Horns blow through Japan

Two members co-direct Andover High and middle school jazz bands

By April A. Guilmet

FROM THE MOMENT THEIR PLANE landed in Japan, jazz musicians and Andover teachers Jeff Buckridge and Garret Savluk should have known they'd be treated well. Savluk observed a man waving flags on the runway, directing the plane as it taxied to the terminal.

"And when he was done, he bowed to the plane before walking away," Savluk said.

The two friends, both music teachers in Andover's public schools, were the ones doing the bowing the rest of the week, as they accepted applause while on tour with their band following the release of albums on the Japanese record label P-Vine.

Buckridge and Garret Savluk co-direct both the Andover High School and middle school jazz bands. And they're both members of the Boston Horns, a contemporary jazz/funk/rock band that's a part of the Boston club scene since it was founded in 1998. The Boston Horns embarked on its first Japanese tour on Nov. 10.

"Garret had a contact at the Canadian embassy in Japan and he'd been told that our music might really be popular there. I didn't really think much would come of it," said Buckridge, 36, who plays guitar in the band. "Next thing you know, they're flying us halfway around the world, putting us up in nice hotels and taking us out for fancy dinners. We were in disbelief."

A music teacher at Doherty Middle School, the Woburn resident soon learned there is a strong jazz following in Japan. Playing gigs in Japan's three major cities, the Boston Horns played at Tokyo's Club Quattro for more than 700 people and also played shows in the Bluenotes clubs in both Osaka and Nagoya, usually to sold-out audiences.

Buckridge described the area in the Shibuyo section of Tokyo as being similar to New York's Greenwich Village.

"It's very young, very hip," he noted.

A native of Windsor, Conn., Garret Savluk, 38, hasn't forgotten his own days as a music student. He played in his high school jazz band. Later the promising trumpet player attended Boston's Berklee School of Music on a full scholarship.

"The competition was strong there. It gave me a chance to learn, to experience criticism," said Savluk, who now lives in Wilmington.

While playing for sold-out crowds in Japan's major cities, however, there was nary a critic.

"The crowd seemed to know us already. Some sang along and knew our songs by heart," Savluk said.

Although both men remain humble [illegible] not like we're celebrities or anything."

The Boston Horns, shown here playing in concert in Tokyo, include Jeff Buckridge on guitar, Garret Savluk on trumpet, Peter MacLean on drums, Henley Douglas Jr. on saxophone, Eric Sayre on bass, and Ben Zecker on keyboards. Below: A close-up of an appreciative crowd of listeners in Tokyo.

AHS student is Exotica in CATS

By Michelle Wiener
WHAT'S UP contributor

ARIEL PROCHILO of 23 Fossen Way is only a junior at Andover High School, but she already knows what she wants to do with her life – dance. Prochilo recently performed in the professional production of CATS with the Palace Professional Theater in Manchester, N.H.

"I had never had any voice training or acting experience," she explains. "I was only able to fit in three voice lessons before the audition was to take place."

Originally, Prochilo decided to try out simply for the experience of auditioning for a professional show. However, with some singing help from former AHS graduate Mala Bhattacharya and her talent, Prochilo made it through the rigorous auditions.

Two weeks after the tryout, she received a call asking her to play the role of Exotica, one of the cats in the ensemble.

With just over two weeks to prepare, 27 performers, 11 of whom were cast from New York City, spent almost every day rehearsing.

As Exotica, Prochilo explains that she "spent the show singing and dancing alongside so many extraordinary performers."

"Working alongside such a highly experienced cast and with such an enthusiastic creative team showed me many new ways to apply the skills that I have already developed and also how much I have left to learn," she says.

CATS opened on Nov. 10, and opening night was the first of seven sold-out shows. CATS, says Prochilo, "has been the opportunity of a lifetime. This experience is exactly what I needed to make me feel good about pursuing a career in performance."

Prochilo's accomplishments do not end with CATS. She spent a week this summer at the Rockette Summer Intensive Training Program in New York City.

"I am interested in pursuing dance and musical theater performance as a career," she says, "and I thought this program would give me a good idea as to whether or not it was for me."

The program admits only 70 girls nationwide. Since Prochilo was unable to attend any of the live auditions, she elected to send an audition tape.

"When I received the letter saying I had been accepted to the program, I was extremely honored and excited," she says. "Training with the Rockettes was [illegible]

SEATING BY DESIGN

Kerriann Amaru, Kelly Sullivan, and Susan Tata

Why do I need an Interior Designer?

The living room walls are covered in paint splotches in a rainbow of colors, the fifteen year old carpet is stained, the window treatments "came with the house", the lighting is dull and the furniture has lost its comfort and style! It's not that you don't have ideas, but somehow last winter turned into the summer and the summer has turned into the fall and you still haven't managed to tackle that DIY project. What you need is someone to help you get organized, someone to focus your ideas and someone to stay within your budget. It's time you've talked to an interior designer at Seating by Design.

You may be thinking yikes! Isn't that going to be expensive? What if they design my home with their personal style? What am I committing myself to?

Don't worry! The design team of Kerriann Amaru, Kelly Sullivan and owner, Susan Tata are a talented crew. Together with over forty years of experience in the field and a bachelors degree in interior design there is nothing they can't achieve for your home and design needs. This team has the training and resources to explore different design options to make your home uniquely personal. The key is to translate your style into a harmonious design that is as beautiful as it is functional. Seating by Design is offering a free thirty minute in-home consultation through December. You can dip your toe into the interior design water without any risk. Let Seating by Design put all your concerns to rest and create the space that you've always wanted, but just needed a little help visualizing and executing. Just think...a new look to start off the New Year!

Call 978-474-4566 to schedule your FREE in-home consultation.

HOLIDAY GIFT GUIDE

Andover couple run a business with a holiday heart

Vision House helps brain-injured

By Chris Young
Eagle-Tribune Correspondent

Your dollar works overtime when you shop at Vision House Gift Shop in Tewksbury.

The Route 38 shop specializes in creative and unusual gift items at an affordable price and uses the profits to help the brain-injured. The shop is in a historic house located at 464 Main St., (Rte. 38), Tewksbury, a short distance from Exit 38 on I-495.

Vision House is the creation of Norma Eisenberg, a former educational psychologist at Andover High School, who became a merchandiser with a mission to help adult victims of acquired brain injuries.

Eisenberg and her husband, Hy Eisenberg, run what many call one of the most fascinating gift shops in the area. She is the buyer with impeccable taste, choosing only quality products that shoppers can't find in most gift shops. He is the behind-the-scenes man, working right beside her.

Despite offering incredible variety and quality, they keep the prices competitive. Because the shop is run by a non-profit, customers can claim half their purchase as a contribution and a tax deduction. Vision House Gift Shop also gives volume discounts to customers and offers free gift wrapping.

It will have an Open House on Saturday, Dec. 2 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The hot holiday suggestion list for 2006 at Vision House offers hundreds of gifts at affordable prices and typically have an inspirational theme. That hot list goes like this.

- Lang Companies calendars, cards and gifts, including candles, seven-stack boxes, cake and cupcake boxes, ornaments, jewelry and lots more. Vision House is a Lang Center, which means the store carries the company's complete line of gifts.
- One-of-a-kind dried floral arrangements and custom-made silk floral arrangements.
- Personalized gift baskets for all occasions, all sizes and prices.
- Baby gift ideas, which include Spoiled Royal Blocks at $5.25 each, real Raggety Anne dolls; a complete line of porcelain-faced Adora Dolls; and dolls from every nation, starting at about $70.
- Amish barn stars made of Pennsylvania Dutch tin roofs
- Donna Sharp quilted handbags and accessories and Isabella's Journey stylish brocade and tapestry carpetbags and handbags
- Hand-made jewelry
- Dezine fairies being sold at special close-out prices.

Norma Eisenberg of Andover shows off an Adora Doll in winter dress, one of the hundreds in her store, Vision House, at 464 Main St., Route 38, Tewksbury. The Adora Doll Collections won first place in the non-procelain face doll competiton, so children can play with them and not worry about damaging the dolls. Eisenberg and her husband, Hy, operate the store, which benefits those with brain injuries.

- A sports section featuring Red Sox and Patriots clocks telling the time, the date and temperature.

Norma and Hy Eisenberg founded Vision House in 1984 with a grant from the Dole Foundation to help brain injured adults and their families. Since 1984, 33 people have gone through the program which offers counseling, socializing and job training.

"We want people to see that people with brain injuries can do things," Norma said. "Potential employers can come into Vision House and observe workers to see what they can do before they hire them."

Before they were injured, these people had jobs, they remember what they were before and they want to do more than they are able. They must relearn what they can do," she said.

Vision House's program is cost effective and economical, a great boon to families as they run out of insurance.

"Most families have difficulty in finding good care for their family member once his or her insurance coverage expires and they are discharged from hospitals and private rehabilitation facilities," Norma said.

The original Vision House Gift Shop, which started as a consignment shop, was also in Tewksbury, at the corner of East and Livingston streets, near Tewksbury Hospital. It is now the Tewksbury Senior Center. The Eisenbergs bought the house at 464 Main St. in 2000 and have gradually expanded their wares so that they now buy from over 80 wholesalers.

The Eisenberg's youngest son, Richard Eisenberg, was severely brain damaged in 1978 when he was 16. Richard, an athlete and Outward Bound participant, was injured when he swerved the car he was driving to avoid hitting a dog.

But car accidents are not the only cause of brain damage. Falls, strokes and aneurysms can also damage the brain as can substance abuse.

After Richard's accident, his family was told he would not live, or if he survived, he would be a vegetable who would never walk or talk.

"He lived and he walks and talks," Norma said. "In those days, people either died from the injury or ended up in the back wards of hospitals."

His family was determined that Richard would receive the best care possible. Although he is legally blind, hemi-plegic and cognitively impaired, Richard has a full life. He lives with his parents and helps them with the gift shop. He is a budding artist who has entered shows and won prizes.

But he had no social life, which is one reason the Eisenbergs are eager to restart the day program which they suspended when they moved.

They have begun looking for a full-time program director so that all the services can be restored.

That's why the success of Vision House Gift Shop is so important.

"The store supports the cost of paying the mortgage, the utilities," Norma said. "Now we need to hire a program director because so many area brain injured people and people with other disabilities are in need of a place to go during the day and evening where they will be physically and intellectually busy."

Store hours: Monday to Friday, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m. Thanksgiving through Christmas only: Thursday, 1 to 8 p.m. They will have an Open House on Saturday, Dec. 2 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Contact the store by phone at 978-863-1163, or check it out online at www.visionhouse.info.

Historical Society at Holiday Happenings

As part of the Andover Business Center Association's annual Holiday Happenings event, on Friday, Dec. 1 the Andover Historical Society will host a free holiday open house from 7 to 9 p.m. The 1820 Amos Blanchard House at 97 Main St., will be decorated for the season. The public is invited to come to the house to enjoy "glittering displays of lights and trees" and holiday refreshments. For more information call 978-475-2236.

COMING IN DECEMBER

Nutcracker ballet to visit Collins Center at AHS

Dance Prism brings its 24th annual production of The Nutcracker to Andover's Collins Center for the Performing Arts on Saturday, Dec. 16 at 2:30 and 6:30 p.m. and again on Sunday, Dec. 17 at 2:30 pm. The Collins Center is located on the right side of Andover High School, off Shawsheen Road.

Dance Prism's full-length production of The Nutcracker embodies Tchaikovsky's most beloved and familiar ballet score, using a cast of 150 professional dancers, pre-professionals and children. The production includes a wardrobe of more than 200 costumes, full scenery, and surprises: dolls popping out of an oversized package, a reindeer-drawn sleigh, falling snow, and a magically rising Christmas tree, said organizers.

NEXT WEEK
A look at residents performing in local Nutcrackers

Two young dancers from Andover will be appearing as part of the Touring Cast throughout New England. Dancing the part of an angel in the opening to Act II is Lydia Mesler. Lydia is joining the touring cast this year after performing for many years in the Andover performances only. Joining Lydia on stage as an mini-doll is first time performer Sophie Coppieters. Sophie has been dancing since the age of 2 and studies at Andover School of Ballet.

A large number of ballet students are joining the cast of The Nutcracker for the Andover performances only. They are, from Andover: Olivia Burns, Taylor Burns, Moorea Colby, Kelly Dinsmore, Emily Jin, Hannah Johnson, Amanda Kamlet, Angelina Lionetta, Maggie Norris and Cecilia Root, Rebecca Savord, Delanie Sawyer, and Madeline Thero. They will be portraying Carolers in the Party Scene. Also from Andover, appearing as Cupids in the beginning of Act II are Emily Field, Lisa Salley, and Jillian Thero.

Admission is $22 for adults and $16 for children and seniors. For tickets, call 978-371-1038 or visit the company's Web site: www.danceprism.com. Group rates are available.

Expert tips for fast results

- Make your ad easy for readers to find by KEYWORDING. Begin by clearly describing the item or service you're offering. (Ex: Stove, rather than Kenmore).
- Capture attention with a large headline or graphic.
- Sell your item or service by highlighting what's special about it. Provide details (color, condition, etc.) that make potential customers want to call.
- Always include price. This increases average response rate by more than 50%.
- We don't use abbreviations. They make your ad harder to read and less effective.
- Schedule your ad for an ample length of time. You may cancel as soon as the ad works.
- Don't forget your phone number and hours you're available.
- Don't hesitate to call our telephone service/sales people for information or assistance

THE BACK PAGE

Times change: Thanksgiving in Andover, 45 years ago

Bill Dalton

The 1961 Thanksgiving issue of the New Yorker has an advertisement suggesting that companies reward executives by sending them for one-year sabbaticals to Britain. There, the executive can bring his entire family and live very comfortably for $12,000. He will "rewind his creative mainspring." A picture shows the executive and his family in elegant, casual attire fishing on the banks of the Thames. Another ad suggests you can fly to Japan at "almost the speed of sound." The magazine is filled with elegance, and everyone is dressed beautifully. Every other page, including the back cover, has pretty pictures of expensive booze, and there are dozens of commercial suggestions to travel to the luxurious Caribbean or other wonderful vacation spots. A Rolls Royce is pictured full-page with the promise that, at 60 mph, the loudest noise you'll hear is the electric clock. This magnificent automobile is priced at $15,655. Surely, prosperity, civility and taste abound. The New Yorker is thick, twice as big as today, bursting with advertising. Nary is mentioned a negative thing. You look at this magazine and are sure that America is the most perfect and content civilization that ever existed.

The Andover Townsman dated Nov. 22, 1961 is on the newsstands the day before Thanksgiving. There is a small front-page ad by realtors John and Rita Hewitt selling a six-room house for $22,000, which includes upgrades like white birch cabinets and a detached two-car garage. In the classified section, a three-room apartment, including parking, is listed for $125 per month. Under "Help Wanted, Female," is a request for a housekeeper for three children, five days a week; the pay is $45. On the front page is an advertisement for Dalton's Pharmacy; it is one of five drug stores in town.

On the inside of the Townsman are ads for the Andover Playhouse and Andover Finance. Sam Resnick owns both businesses.The sign for Andover Finance, which includes in large letters the word "Loans," has been up so long on the Musgrove Building that it is a landmark. Mr. Resnick has gained many friends due to his generosity handing out free movie tickets to kids during the holiday season. He has owned the Andover Playhouse (formerly the Colonial Playhouse) since 1918. He also owns the Musgrove Building.

Elander & Swantons advertises Lord Buxton billfolds for $5. The men's clothing store, which has been in operation since 1927, is in the Arco Building. Al Legendre, the store manager, is the face of the business. He is a pleasant man who remembers your exact size. His daughter Joan is a friend of mine and is in my class; we are seniors. She is co-captain of the cheerleaders. A small story inside the paper says Miss Susan Mulvey, a sophomore, is among 20 campus finalists competing to be on Wheaton College's team of "television quiz kids," who will appear on the "College Bowl." Susan grew up just a few houses from mine on Chestnut Street. There is a birth announcement stating that a daughter was born to the Chalifour family, which already includes 10 other daughters.

Cole's Paint and Hardware says it has the largest selection of Christmas toys in town, including a corn popper push toy for $1.38, genuine bongo drums for only $4.77, a game of cold war diplomacy called "Summit" for $5.84, and a "flash plane" which takes off and lands electrically for $2.88. Milton Cole is my Dad's tenant in the Barnard Building. His wife Ginny is active in town affairs.

Grecoe's Jewelry runs ad. Danny Grecoe graduated from high school the year before, and was one of the "Florence Street Gang." Reinhold's Shoe at 13 Main St. advertises men's ankle boots. In my memory it is most famous as the place that, for a while in the 50's, we could look through a flouroscope at the bones in our feet.

Bennie's Barbershop has a small ad. The owner, Bennie, has the first chair in the store, Steve the second, and Joe the third. Steve is the only one who knows how to give a kid a haircut that varies from "regular."

In the middle of the paper is a large photo of a group of people seeding the Indian Ridge Country Club. Daniel Hogan, the club president, says the club will be open by July the next year. Mr. Hogan's daughter Polly graduated from the high school the year before.

The All-Girls Band is mentioned on second page for winning an award. On page 8, the new All-Boys Band thanks the public for supporting its car wash and bake sale that brought in $190. The money will be used to purchase uniforms. Junior high school principal William Hart announces several changes, including the introduction of educational television to be shown in social studies classes each Monday at 11 a.m. and additional gym classes to support President John Kennedy's emphasis on physical education.

The Andover Inn advertises a full course baked ham Sunday dinner for $2.50. There is an ad for Rickey's Variety "next to the railroad station," which sells fish and chips and fried clams. More people in town have eaten Rickey's fish and chips than not. Whitworth's Sporting Goods on Essex Street in Lawrence is selling quilted women's parkas for $11.88, men's stretch ski pants for $15.98, Henke ski boots for $29.98, and Head skis for $98.50. Whitworth's is really an extension of Andover, since most of us in high school go there for athletic equipment and know the Whitworths, who lived in Andover. Nancy Whitworth is in my class. Hill's Hardware advertises their skate exchange where, for a dollar, kids bring in skates they have outgrown and exchange them for used skates of like quality. There are small ads for Phinneys, which " repairs all makes of televisions, radios, and stereos," Mason Arnold's Esso Station at 17 Railroad St., and John Murray's gas station on the corner of Main and Chestnut streets. The Phinneys, Arnolds, and Murrays are all well-known Andover families.

The Coffee Mill reminds us that they are at 125 Main St., but everybody in town already knows that. It is owned by the Birdsalls. Mrs. Birdsall (Dorothy) has been very helpful in the creation of the town's first teen center in the old Grange Building behind West Parish Church.

The Editorial Page includes a suggestion that the teacher's base salary of $4,200 per year is not enough to attract the best. A letter to the editor from Karl Haartz notes that, "Andover is fortunate in having a newspaper which publishes opinions ... though on occasion, its own reaction is that an opinion is ridiculous..." Mr. Haartz is a well-known letter writer and likable town gadfly. The editorial page also has an opinion that refers back to the primary front-page story. The editorial supports the Andover residents who are having their land taken by eminent domain in order for the state to construct Route 495, but who have not yet been offered payment.

This impending construction of Route 495 is the dropping of the second shoe in Andover. Interstate 93, completed in 1959, has already slashed through Andover from south to north and now Route 495, which will be finished in 1965, will cut from west to east. Nothing in the history of the town will have such a dramatic effect on it. Andover is a quietly busy town of 15,000, but people know everyone in their neighborhood. Kids know all their classmates in high school. It is well-governed town and has good schools. It is pretty and has Phillips Academy.

The completion of the two highways will make Andover the economic center of the lower Merrimack Valley. The new highways will attract big employers and some of the best industry. Thousands of people will commute on Interstate 93 and Route 495 to jobs in Andover. The easy access to Boston, now less than 30 minutes away, will allow someone working in Boston to comfortably commute to Andover. For many people, Andover will become an affluent suburb of Boston, a place to put their kids in good schools. The town is so well located and otherwise attractive that real estate prices will soar and become one of the highest in the country of towns or cities its size.

Some people will judge that the town becomes a worse place, others will say it is better; but everyone who has known both Andovers will agree that the town is a very, very different place from what it was.

I can be reached at billdalton@billdaltononline.com.

Correction

Last week, ("Mailbag: Readers share swimming-, skating-spot memories") columnist Bill Dalton incorrectly wrote that Margaret Roberts' father and other residents had petitioned the town to create Pine Street in 1902. It was her great-grandfather who did so.
